Eastern New York, Western Massachusetts Hit

WEST STOCKBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Clean-up operations began today to clear away debris and survey damage caused by a tornado that ripped through eastern New York into western Massachusetts Tuesday, killing four persons and injuring 31 others.

The twister leveled the State Line Diner at the Berkshire Truck Plaza complex here.

The dead were identified as Robert Hoag, 56, of New Hartford, N.Y., Louis J. Pascale, 28, of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Louis Dubois, 58, a truck driver from Foxboro, Mass. A fourth victim, Constantine Delmolino, 37, died of injuries suffered when the tornado hit his home about a half a mile from the diner.

State Police from Massachusetts and New York and more than 60 volunteers remained on the scene throughout the night, and heavy equipment was called in to clear up the debris which was strewn at least half a mile away.

A state Department of Conservation hydroplane was called in this morning to check a swampy area near the truck stop for possible bodies. However, a state police spokesman said, "We don't expect to find anybody."

Of the 31 persons treated at three Pittsfield hospitals, all but two were listed in satisfactory condition today.

Listed in critical condition at Berkshire Medical Center was Curtis Valentine, 38, of Lyndonville, N.Y. His son, Eric, 7, was in fair condition at the hospital.

Bank checks and papers from the diner were apparently carried as far as 50 or 60 miles away into Connecticut by the winds. Philip Lansing of Granby, Conn., and Cindy Lariviere of South Windsor, Conn., reported finding papers bearing the name of the State Line Diner in their front yards.

Keith Loveless of Stockbridge, who was lunching at the diner when the storm hit, said a group of patrons had clustered at the door to watch the heavy downpour.

"I heard a snap and looked up and saw the whole roof divide down the middle and blow off," Loveless said.

"I thought I was dead. I thought the whole city had been destroyed," said another patron, Grosa Girona of West Stockbridge.

Trees and utility poles were uprooted, about 20 cars and trucks were overturned and gas pumps from the truck complex garage were ripped off their stands.

A number of homes in the area sustained heavy damage, especially to rooftops, but no official estimate was immediately determined.

The tornado apparently struck the Berkshire Farm for Boys in Canaan, N.Y., about 15 minutes before moving into West Stockbridge.

Donald J. Cox, assistant executive director of the farm, estimated damage at $250,000 but said none of the farm's 225 residents were injured.

Storms also hit other parts of New York and New England Tuesday, causing considerable damage but no reported injuries.

A 100-year-old home was gutted in Franklin, Maine, and a Presbyterian church at West Mills, Maine, was destroyed by fires caused by lightning, fire officials said.

Two residents of Windbeam Lodge near the Sugarbush ski area in Warren, Vt., were killed Tuesday in a general alarm fire caused by lightning, according to Fire Chief John Snow.

The victims were identified as Thomas Bowers, 26, and Charles Minnerly, 39.

The National Weather Service said a hot, humid air mass had been hovering over New England for several days and was responsible for the storms.

More heat and humidity were predicted for today, although drier air was to move southward across northern New England today.

'Should Accept Blame' Merrill Tells Koenig

BY HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON Republican Mayoral candidate William B. Merrill Jr. said today that Mayor Francis R. Koenig should "accept full responsibility" for alleged wrongdoing at the city treasurer's office.

"President Nixon accepts the blame for Watergate," Merrill said at a press conference at the Gov. Clinton Hotel. "Koenig should accept the blame for the treasurer's office."

Merrill also raised issue with statements attributed to Koenig in which Koenig said on Aug 6, following the resignation of City Treasurer Thomas R. Lyle that the resignation came as a surprise and that he (Koenig) was not aware of the nature of the "very pressing, urgent and trying peronal matters" which Lyle cited in his letter of resignation.

Lyle was indicted on Aug. 23 by the Ulster County Grand Jury on charges of fraud involving his insurance business. It was emphasized, however, by District Attorney Francis J. Vogt that the grand jury indictments had no connection with the on-going investigation of money shortages in the city treasurer's office where two men have been indicted.

"I think Koenig is possibly hiding a little bit here," Merrill said today. "I don't think he could stand back and say he didn't know the reason" (for Lyle's resignation). "It seems quite obvious, and indictment has been passed down."

"I know this much," Merrill said. "If I were chief executive and my city treasurer tried to resign in the midst of the type of scandal they've got going there, I'd demand to know the reasons." Merrill suggested that Koenig probably knew the reasons but did not want to discuss them publicly due to his "personal relationship with Lyle and the apparent nature of the reasons."

Koenig, contacted today, had "no comment" on any of Merrill's statements.

Merrill said he called the press conference today because "up until this date Koenig has been quite silent in responding to issues I have raised." Merrill said that "debating the issues is a definite part of politics" and that "any politician who won't debate should be reprimanded."

Merrill's press conference was in the nature of "question and answer" with Merrill asking the questions although it wasn't entirely clear who was supposed to answer them, Merrill or the persons, or city departments they were directed toward.

The first question was "what paid fireman lobbied in Albany during the recent legislative session and who paid the tab for this lobbying?" Merrill answered that question by stating that the man in question was Kingston Fire Fighter Robert Gollnick, secretary to the State Fire Fighters Association. "Who was he paid by, the fire department, the union or the Labor Department?" Merrill asked "How much time does he put in on his job as a city fireman?" Merrill said he "didn't think lobbying is a firemanic duty."

Merrilll also raised issue with the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, contending that there are "no comparative values" on prices charged by the agency for land in the Uptown Project to individual developers. "Just what qualified appraiser set up these figures or were they dreamed up by the urban renewal agency?" Merrill asked. Urban renewal officials were not available for comment.

Merrill refused to comment, although he demanded an answer, on his question of "what new building in our downtown urban renewal project is sinking and could cause a catastrophe if not corrected?" The question was an obvious reference to the new city hall.

Merrill also said that his running mate, Burt Ellis, candidate for alderman-at-large, "would definitely be coming out on Sept. 1." Merrill allowed that Ellis "has been a little bit in the background," but said that was necessitated by the opening of a new business.

Merrill, who stated that his campaign was "moving into high gear," said he would be holding press conferences every two weeks along with regular comment on the issues, from now until Election Day.

According to Merrill, three debates between him and Koenig have been tentatively scheduled within the next two months, one each by the Ulster County Chapter of the Business and Professional Women's Association, the Ulster County Chamber of Commerce and the Kingston Chapter of the League of Women Voters.

'Suddenly I Was Alone'

WEST STOCKBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—An instructor at Staten Island Community College, who survived a tornado which demolished the Berkshire Truck Plaza, described how one of his best friends was killed.

When the tornado struck the plaza diner, Frank Galati, 35, said, "I blew around and I hit a wall. I ran—all of a sudden I was airborne. My friend was heavier and lacked the agility, then suddenly I was alone. He was about three feet away from me. A wall fell over on him. I could see his legs sticking up."

Galati's friend was identified as Louis Pasquale, 28, a student from New York City.

Galati was hospitalized but not seriously hurt. He is on the faculty of Staten Island Community College and a summer resident of Stockbridge.

He said he went to the diner for lunch after working with Pasquale on restoration of a house.

Another survivor of the tornado, John A. Pons, 56, of West Stockbridge, said he was looking through a window in the diner when he saw the sky darken.

"I said, my God, it's a tornado.

"My daughter was half under the desk when it hit. I hit the floor. It lasted only one or two minutes, but it seemed like a long time."

He said his daughter was "yelling, 'my leg, my leg,' and I pulled the cinder blocks off her. I picked her up and carried her out front where my car was parked, but it was gone."

Pons escaped with superficial cuts and bruises.

Gordon Fairfield, a carpenter, was in the diner when the twister hit.

"It sounded like somebody set off some fireworks and that's when the roof raised," he said. Fairfield, trapped 20 minutes in the debris and with a gash in his left arm that required 20 stitches, said, "It's amazing that anyone got out from underneath."

A Massachusetts Turnpike employe, working on a repaving project near the truckstop, said, "I first heard a whistling sound and then it was black and raining so hard you couldn't even seen anything." He said he got into his truck, fastened the seat belts and "started praying."

Cab Driver Murdered, Body Found in Ulster

TOWN OF MARLBOROUGH State police from Orange and Ulster Counties intensified their search today for a knife-wielding robber who brutally murdered a Newburgh cab driver Tuesday afternoon in the Town of Marlborough.

Police details combed the southern Ulster County area today searching for clues that would lead to the identity or whereabouts of the murder suspect. Residents throughout the Town of Marlborough were questioned concerning any suspicious events they may have noticed Tuesday afternoon.

The body of 64-year-old Edwin Pascoe was discovered in a wooded area of the Town of Marlborough at about 5 p.m. Tuesday. Several hours earlier, Newburgh city police began their search for the missing man.

Pascoe was a cab driver for the Newburgh Taxi Company, which has its main offices on Lake Street in that Orange County city. Shortly after 12 noon on Tuesday, the taxi company notified Newburgh city police that their driver hadn't been heard from since he picked up an unidentified fare on Broadway earlier in the day.

Pascoe's white and blue taxicab was discovered abandoned in the Town of Marlborough Tuesday afternoon. Then, shortly after 5 p.m., Pascoe's body was found in a wooded area of the township by an unidentified resident.

Pascoe's throat had been slit, apparently with a knife.

Police theorize that Pascoe's last fare ordered the cabbie to drive him from Newburgh to southern Ulster County, where he murdered the man and then escaped on foot. Robbery was the apparent motive for the slaying, said police.

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser said an autopsy would be performed today to determine the cause of death. Pascoe's body was removed to the Ulster County morgue. The man resided at 10 Linden Avenue in Newburgh.

State police have asked that anyone who might have seen a 1973 Checker taxicab (white with blue lettering) in the northern Newburgh or southern Ulster County area between 12 noon and 5 p.m. Tuesday call state police at either Hurley or Newburgh. All information, they said, will be kept strictly confidential.

City Police Make Another Arrest as Arson Probe Widens

KINGSTON — City police have arrested another person they claim is allegedly responsible for recent incendiary fires at the new Salvation Army headquarters on Cedar Street.

Vernon Lewis, 22, of RD 4, Box 229, Kingston, was arrested Tuesday morning by detectives and charged with three counts of third degree arson and two counts of falsely reporting an incident.

On Monday, 19-year-old John Paul Borelli of 24 West O'Reilly Street, was arrested on a third degree arson charge in connection with a fire May 7 at the Salvation Army building.

A police spokesman said Tuesday that more arrests are expected as the probe into alleged arson activities in the city widens.

Lewis has been charged specifically with setting fires at Salvation Army headquarters on May 7, July 6 and August 6 of this year.

The May 7 fire, according to police, was allegedly set in a portable toilet on the Salvation Army property, when the building was still under construction. Borelli has also been charged in connection with that fire.

The July 6 fire involved a pile of trash at the rear of the building. There was no damage reported to the structure. On August 6, a bale of hay at the rear of the building was also ignited, again resulting in no damage to the building.

Police said that their investigation is continuing and that they expect to make additional arrests shortly.

Lewis was held in the Ulster County Jail pending arraignment in City Court today.

He was also charged with two counts of falsely reporting an incident. Police have charged that Lewis allegedly sounded a false alarm at the Gas Land service station on Broadway on May 31, and then allegedly reported another false alarm at a private residence on Wrentham Street on June 27. Borelli has also been charged with reporting the false alarm on May 31.

Borelli was arraigned in City Court Tuesday. He was remanded to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bail pending further court action on Friday for the purpose of obtaining counsel.

Meanwhile, 21-year-old Timothy Asip of Elizabeth Street, Kingston, who was arrested July 27 on six counts of arson, appeared in City Court Monday. His case was adjourned until Thursday for preliminary hearing, and Asip was remanded to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bail.

Asip has been charged with setting fires in the city on Nov. 1, 1972 and July 19, July 20, July 21, July 23 and July 25 of this year. Four of the fires were at the Gateway Industries building, where Asip was employed.

And Sylvester L. Byers, 25, of 75 Abeel Street, who was arrested Monday for sounding a false alarm at Abeel and Wurts Streets, also had his case adjourned until Thursday.

We're Having a Heat Wave!

By JEAN DOLAN

KINGSTON — August bowing out in a belated summer heat wave is causing severe discomfort to Ulster County residents but sparing them the violence experienced elsewhere.

Forecasters see no relief in sight for the area before Saturday. The heat, humidity and resultant short tempers will continue with just a chance of a shower or two unti the weekend.

The mercury at the Kingston City Engineer's office hit a high of 99 degrees at 1:10 p.m. Tuesday but failed to beat the previous high of 100 degrees set in 1948.

Central-Hudson had a nominal voltage reduction of five per cent Tuesday during peak daytime hours and a like reduction is in effect today. A wind gust Tuesday downed a tree limb in the Zena area causing a brief power outage there until repairs could be made.

Today the utility company is hooking up power for the new apartment complex in Broadway East and as a result power will be cut for a time to city hall and the fire station. However, both buildings have emergency generators which will be utilized for the period.

Throughout the Central Hudson system, customers are being urged to conserve power during the day. Total kilowatt usage Tuesday was 620,000, well below the peak summer total of 632,000 kilowatts used on Aug. 10.

After a summer of record rainfall, near drought conditions are being felt in the county as a result of the past two weeks on only traces of rain. The New York State Environmental Conservation Fire Control at New Paltz cautions vacationists to use extreme care in woodlands which are drying out rapidly. No fires have been reported as yet and there are no burning bans but the woods are "extremely dry" and all preventative measures should be observed, a spokesman siad.

In New York City, the mercury hit a record 98 degrees Tuesday, causing beleagured Consolidated Edison to drop voltage five per cent and triggering a water alert for the city's hard pressed water system.

At least Ulster County residents had the consolation of nearby rivers, streams, swimming pools and even a patio breeze to ease their discomfort.

UCCC, Sullivan Agree on Grants

STONE RIDGE — The Board of Trustees at Ulster County Community College last ight authorized a consortium agreement with Sullivan County's Community College to provide federal grants to students enrolled in correction administration and in police science programs at Ulster.

The consortium agreement next will be forwarded to the Ulster County Legislature for approval.

Ulster has a federal grant under the Law Enforcement Education Program (LEEP) from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the U.S. Department of Justice in Washington, D.C.

Under terms of the grant, financial assistance is given to students enrolled in police science and correction administration programs.

Under terms of the consortium agreement, students at both Ulster and Sullivan County Community Colleges will be eligible for these grants if enrolled in police science and correction administration degree programs at Ulster.

Dr. George B. Erbstein, president of UCCC, said some students receiving federal assistance may take liberal arts courses at Sullivan County Community College and specialized police science and correction administration courses at Ulster.

Losing Side Certain to Appeal

Tape Ruling Expected Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica was scheduled to rule today on whether President Nixon must turn over White House tape recordings of Watergate-related conversations to Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox.

The losing side in the historical legal battle is certain to appeal the decision to the Supreme Court, which returns from its summer recess in October.

Sirica's office said the judge would make his ruling in late afternoon in a written decision that will not be read from the bench.

Nixon told a news conference last week he would abide by a "definitive" decision by the Supreme Court, but he did not elaborate on what that term meant.

Cox subpoenaed the nine tapes of phone calls and White House conversations last month. If the courts rule in the prosecutor's favor, Nixon will be the first President since Thomas Jefferson to be compelled to answer a subpoena.

The Senate Watergate committee, which believes the tapes to be the only conclusive evidence on the President's knowledge of the Watergate break-in and subsequent cover-up, has initiated a similar suit.

Cox and Charles Alan Wright, serving as Nixon's lawyer, argued the case before Sirica last week.

Wright said that only the President has the power to decide whether his private conversations should be made public. To release the Watergate-related tapes, he argued, would destroy confidentiality between the President and his aides.

In addition Wright said that national security matters "so sensitive the President would not even confide to me what they involved" are spread amidst the Watergate conversations.

Cox argued that the doctrine of executive privilege cited by the administration does not apply to evidence in a criminal case, the break-in of Democratic national headquarters at the Watergate. The President, like any other citizen, Cox argued, is "not above the law."

Withholding the tapes from the Watergate grand jury, Cox contended, could jeopardize both the prosecution of future defendants and the defense of those charged with crimes arising from the Watergate cover-up.

The tapes are of conversations secretly made by the White House of discussions beginning shortly after the break-in in June, 1972. Included are conversations Nixon had with his top aides, John Ehrlichman, H. R. Haldeman and John Dean, related to the break-in.

Nixon Not Contemplating Tax Hike

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon is confident there will be no recession next year and does not contemplate a tax increase, according to a White House spokesman.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said Tuesday the Chief Executive is confident that government-sponsored economic policies and budgetary restraints "will bring inflation down to reasonable levels."

The President is "of course concerned about the inflationary situation," Warren told reporters.

But he pointed out that Nixon's chief economic advisors, including treasury Secretary George P. Shultz and Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, "feel strongly a balanced budget can be achieved this year and that would obviously negate any need for a tax increase this year."

Nixon promised in the last election campaign there would be no federal tax boost.

He has spent some of his working hours at the Western White House reviewing the status of the economy.

Asked whether the President is confident there will be no recession next year, Warren replied: "Yes."

He explained that Nixon feels price stability will return and the overall economic situation will improve "because of the work being done by all segments of the government, including the budget restraints on future planning."

Meanwhile, the bill to increase the minimum wage from $1.60 to $2.20 per hour was at the White House awaiting action by the President.

Nixon opposed the legislation while it was under consideration by Congress, but the AFL-CIO has made a major effort urging the President to sign the bill. It is now being reviewed by the administration's budget experts.

The President plans to end his California stay later this week and will head for his Camp David, Md., mountaintop retreat for a Labor Day weekend with his family.

Automakers Wait for Ruling From Council

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council may decide within a week whether to grant Phase 4 price increases sought by the nation's big four automakers, a council spokesman says.

The spokesman said the council would rule shortly because of the considerable publicity surrounding the requests and because a public hearing had been held.

The proposed hikes, ranging from $61 a model sought by American Motors to $106 a model sought by Ford, take effect automatically unless the council vetoes them. General Motors has asked for an increase averaging $102 a model; Chrysler, $70 a model.

Representatives of all four manufacturers, however, have said the increases will be inadequate to meet the increasing costs, and additional hikes may be requested in the near future.

Members of a council hearing board questioned the automakers at a day-long public hearing Tuesday. Ford and General Motors were asked if they still needed the full amounts requested in view of the fact that Chrysler and American Motors had proposed lower increases.

Representatives of both Ford and GM said they would take a "hard look" at the situation for competitive reasons.

This raised the possibility that the council might trim the Ford and GM requests.

Representatives of all four automakers indicated to the council that they would probably seek additional price increases shortly to cover higher labor and materials costs.

Henry W. Welch, vice president for finance of General Motors, said GM has not had a price increase to cover material or wage costs since December 1971, although such costs have increased $92 per vehicle on the average.

The increases now under consideration, the automakers say, are to recover the cost of government-mandated safety and antipollution equipment on 1974 models, including improvements for bumpers, seat belts and roofs.

Kenneth C. Merrill, comptroller for Ford's North American automotive operations, questioned whether "these price adjustments should be considered price increases at all, because the products are changed to give benefits to the customer that are at least equal to the costs."

That view was challenged by the only hearing witness who did not represent the automotive industry, Peter J. Petkas of the Corporate Accountability Research Group, a Ralph Nader-affiliated group.

"The mere fact that safety and emission control standards are federally mandated is no justification for unquestioningly passing their cost on to the consumer," he said.

Beef Buildup Underway

WASHINGTON (AP) — The scarcity of beef in the supermarkets may be nearing an end, according to an Agriculture Department spokesman.

"There seems to be a little buildup under way," he said.

"Earlier this month we had verified that 70 packing houses were closed. By early this week we estimated that fewer than 50 were still closed," said the spokesman, who asked not to be identified.

Price controls for all foods except beef were removed July 18. The lid on beef is scheduled to be removed Sept. 12.

In a department report issued Tuesday officials said production of all red meat in July was 2.651 billion pounds, down 5 per cent from June, but about the same as last July.

Other details of the report included:

—Beef output in July was down 3 per cent from June, but about equal to that month a year ago. The January-July output was 4 per cent less than 1972.

—Veal production in July was down 4 per cent from June, and was 27 per cent less than last July. Production in January-July was 27 per cent less than a year ago.

—Pork production declined 11 per cent from June to July, and was down 1 per cent compared with last July. January-July output was down 6 percent.

—Lamb and mutton production increased 10 per cent from June to July and was 16 per cent above last July. However, January-July production was 5 per cent below last year.

—Poultry meat output on a ready-to-cook basis dropped 3 per cent from June to July, and was down 1 per cent in January-July from a year earlier.

Gasoline Supplies Continue to Improve

WASHINGTON (AP) — Threats of Labor Day weekend gas station shutdowns to protest price controls have evaporated, so travelers should find no serious inconvenience in getting fuel, the American Automobile Association reported Tuesday.

The AAA's 13th and final summer nationwide spot checks along major highways and travel destinations found gasoline supplies improved for the eighth straight week.

"This week 58 per cent of stations contacted are operating normally — maintaining hours of operation in effect before the summer fuel pinch and allowing motorists to fill their gas tanks," the AAA reported.

"This compares with 55 per cent normal operation last week and 43 per cent as of June 28, the low point of the summer."

The final survey covered 3,981 stations in all states except Alaska. Of these, 2,731 reported their operating plans for the Labor Day weekend and 82 per cent said they would be open for the holiday weekend.

The report said the Denver area continues to show rapid improvement although 55 per cent of the stations are still reported closing from noon Saturday until 7 a.m. Monday, compared with 75 per cent last week and 98 per cent a month ago.

"Kansas has showed a deterioration of conditions with only 12 per cent of stations operating normally, compared with 16 per cent last week," the report said.

HAROLD SASHIN

Chairman Defends Area Poultrymen

ELLENVILLE

Ellenville poultryman Harold Sashin, recently appointed chairman of the New York Farm Bureau Poultry Committee, spoke out recently in defense of poultrymen on the matter of odor pollution.

At a meeting of the Department of Environmental Conservation, Sashin, a former town justice, vice-chairman of the town planning board and member of the Ulster County Republican Committee, defended a fellow Farm Bureau member whose egg farm would have been closed because of odor violations.

Sashin reasoned that "If 10 people are offended by farm odor and put one farmer out of business, 4,000 people must be deprived of protein. What needs are most important?" he asked.

The Farm Bureau spokesman added that, "consumers are demanding fresh eggs, fresh milk and want no part of agriculture. Many turn their noses up at farmers."

Sashin was also appointed to represent the New York State egg industry on the Legislative and Environmental Committee of the Northeast Egg Marketing Association.

New York Farm Bureau was one of the first in the nation to form a Poultry Commodity Committee, and New York Farm Bureau has been a leader in working together with the Department of Environmental Conservation and Marketing Agencies.

In June, the American Farm Bureau called an emergency meeting of poultry leaders from across the nation. Sashin represented New York.

"The freight rates in the northeast are higher than in other areas," the past Ulster County Farm Bureau president told the conference. "Almost all the northeast railroads are bankrupt and New York egg farmers are already being hurt by high feed costs." Feed prices rose from $3.92 per hundred pounds a year ago to a present $7.57 per hundred pounds the leader cited. "Besides the rail car shortage, flood damage and wheat sales to USSR have contributed to the high price of grain."

Commenting on the disaster relief situation Sashin showed that there was discrimination against New York State farmers when the loans were issued. "The SBA and FHA issued funds too slowly to New York compared to the south where flood relief was immediate," he said.

"New York State is being used as a dumping ground for eggs from the southeast," Sashin said. "Farmers in those states are overproducing and flooding New York markets on a two price system. Since by doing this they are setting New York prices and hurting the poultry industry even further." The same problem is occurring in Kentucky, Ohio and Michigan. The Farm Bureau leader believes a stabilization program is the answer to this problem.

As chairman of the Farm Bureau Poultry Committee, Sashin said he wants to help farmers by working with DEC toward more reasonable regulations, deal with the high freight rates, improve conditions for marketing and achieve a more sensible system of government inspection.

"As long as farmers adhere to normal agriculture practice, they should be left alone, Sashin concluded.

Stewart Impact Feared

NEW PALTZ

The impact of Stewart Airport on Ulster ounty is feared by Thomas Nyquist, Democratic candidate for the Ulster County Legislature from Dist. 8.

Nyquist, in a press release issued recently, said that "One of the ironies of the six-volume impact study of the development of Stewart Field prepared under the auspices of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority is its failure to consider Ulster County.

Describing the proposed facility as "very big indeed," Nyquist suggested that residential growth may reach out northward well beyond 15 miles from Stewart. New Paltz, for instance, is only about 15 by the Thruway from Newburgh and 30 minutes plus from Kingston.

Nyquist said that the expansion of Stewart Field would seem to imply the increased growth of bedroom communities in at least the lower half of Ulster County, with the attendant need for additional water and sewer facilities, additional classrooms and teachers, more roads and, ultimately, more taxes. But how great the impact will be is unclear."

Nyquist also points to other factors such as noise and air pollution, the fact that many jobs at the field will go to specialists from elsewhere, the impact of the field on major highways such as the Thruway.

"If projections are met," he said, "about 10,000 people will be using the field daily by 1975 and 100,000 by 1990. Already the toll road is glutted on Sunday evenings during the summer, with extremely heavy traffic as far out from New York City to Kingston. Yet MTA has no formal commitment from highway officials for the widening of the Thruway.

"It appears we are being sacrificed to meet the needs of the air traveler," he concluded.

Shawangunk Democrats Name Flynn

SHAWANGUNK

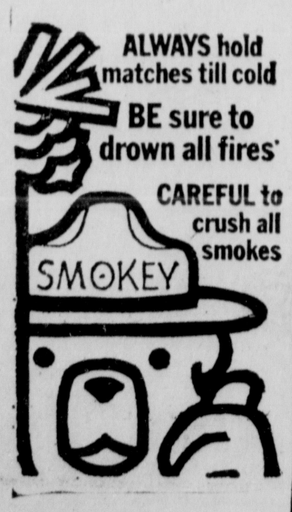

Shawangunk Democrats caucused recently and nominated Charles "Bud" Flynn of Walker Valley to head the town slate.

The 50-year-old naval veteran and 20-year Shawangunk resident is a correction officer assigned to the Narcotics Rehabilitation Center at Woodbourne.

In giving the nominating speech, Democratic Town Chairman Marc Fried referred to Flynn as the "single individual from among nearly 6,000 residents who is best qualified to be supervisor of the Town of Shawangunk.

Fried, who is also a candidate for the County Legislature from the new Dist. 8, reported that Thomas Umberto is the Democratic candidate for Town Justice. Laurence Powell, 22, was nominated for councilman and has the cross endorsement of the Conservative Party and two women are running for councilman posts, Mrs. Bea Elliott and Mrs. Vasilike Annenos.

Former Supervisor Lester Terwilliger and former Highway Superintendent Henry Malloy addressed the caucus briefly.

City of Lights and High Prices

There's No Place Like Home, But

PARIS (UPI) — The outcry in the United States about high food prices brought yawns and sad smiles from two American housewives who have recently arrived to live in Paris.

Mrs. Edward Casazza, fresh from Poughkeepsie, N.Y., was shocked on her first visit to the food shops near the apartment she and her husband took in a prosperous section near the Eiffel Tower.

"I am overwhelmed to see the prices here," said Mrs. Casazza, wife of an executive at International Business Machines.

Another new arrival, Mrs. William Stieff, wife of an American journalist, felt the same way about prices in stores in her middle-class neighborhood.

"American women think their supermarket prices are high," she said. "Would they get a shock if they could see the prices in Paris."

Fruits and vegetables appear to me about the same, or even cheaper in Paris," said Mrs. Casazza.

"But meat, butter, eggs, canned and frozen foods, maintenance items such as soap powder, paper towels—they're higher."

She pointed to a cheese and butter shop and said, "The medium grade butter in this shop is the equivalent of 92 cents a half pound. The last time I shopped in the States, butter was 89 cents to a dollar for an entire pound."

Mrs. Casazza bought top quality roast beef for the equivalent of $3.29 a pound and sighed, "Three weeks ago in Poughkeepsie I paid for top beef $2 to $2.25 a pound."

She said she found little cans of tomato paste for the equivalent of 67 cents in Paris, but back home she paid 10 to 12 cents a can.

Mrs. Stieff, touring her open air market near the Place de La Bastille in east Paris, gasped at the price of fish, including sole selling at the equivalent of $3.63 a pound.

"Back in our Washington suburb of Chevy Chase I never paid more than $2 a pound for any fish except lobster," she said.

A 49-ounce package of laundry soap sells for 85 cents back home but is the equivalent of $3.70 in Paris, the women noted.

Many prices are higher for Americans because of dollar devaluations, but even not counting the devaluation most items would cost more in Paris than in the United States.

The lower price for devaluated American imports does not appear to have been passed on to the Paris consumer. Expatriate peanut butter fanciers still pay the equivalent of $1.10 for a small jar and a quart of that Florida orange juice still is 87 cents in Paris.

"And who can drive to the supermarket when gasoline costs $1.25 a gallon in Paris?" asked Mrs. Stieff.

Area Husband, Wife Attend WWII Reunion

PORT EWEN — Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kennedy of 230 Bowne Street, Port Ewen, recently attended a World War 2 reunion in Pittsburgh where the honored guest was Mayor Michel de Vallavielle of Saint-Marie du Mont, one of the first French towns to be liberated by American troops on D-Day.

The reunion was held by the National 4th Infantry (Ivy) Division Association and the men of the Ivy Division were on Utah Beach, June 6, 1944 when de Vallavielle bravely came forward to greet American soldiers and advise them of German artillery positions in the area.

With all the confusion, the then 25-year-old de Vallavielle was mistaken for the enemy and shot by an American paratrooper. He was wounded seriously and spent 11 months in Allied hospitals recovering from chest, arm and shoulder wounds.

His reception at the Pittsburgh Hilton was far less hostile.

Members of the 4th Infantry Association raised more than $2,500 to bring the mayor to America. In addition to Pittsburgh, de Vallavielle visited the Boston area, Washington, D.C., Philadelphia, West Point, Niagara Falls and New York City.

The mayor was very impressed with the United States and said that the visit added a new dimension to his life. A dairy farmer by trade, de Vallavielle has been Mayor of Saint-Marie du Mont for the past 24 years.

He autographed copies of an illustrated pamphlet on the D-Day invasion and each member of the association received one along with a diploma signifying they had been on Utah Beach.

Attorney General Elliot Richardson, a former member of the Fourth Division, presented de Vallavielle with an American flag that had flown over the Capitol building.

Paul Kennedy renewed his friendship with Richardson during the three-day reunion. Richardson was Kennedy's lieutenant in the D-Day landing with the medical detachment 12th Regiment of the Fourth Division.

Kennedy was decorated with three Bronze Star medals while serving in the war and Richardson recommended him for the first one.

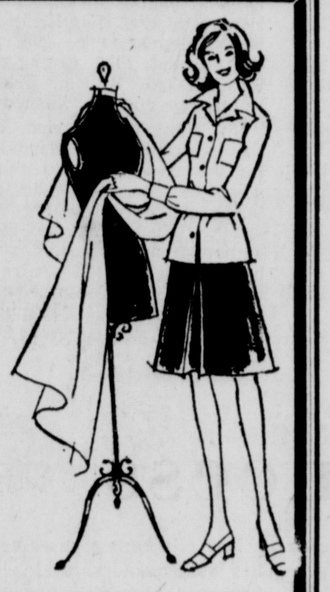

The Pittsburgh reunion along with similar ones in the other cities proved to be an unforgettable occasion for all involved. Mayor de Vallavielle summed up his feelings by saying, "I am profoundly touched by all of you and hope you accept out thanks as an expression of our very grateful and most cordial feelings."

Post-Watergate Winner

In a Congressional district with a 2 to 1 Democratic registration a "swing" election region that has alternated between the major parties for the last 30 years, an aggressive young conservative Republican, State Senator Robert E. Bauman, was elected member of the House of Representatives from the First District of Maryland in the first post-Watergate election in the country.

His opponent was Frederick C. Malkus, an old-line 60-year-old Democrat and also a Maryland state senator. The unofficial but complete returns were 26,941 for Bauman, 25,581 for Malkus.

Bauman sought to make his victory a repudiation of the critics of Watergate. "Those who feel you can convict persons without evidence in the press have a rude awakening," he said.

Most political observers seem to feel that nonpartisan disgust with politics in general was the dominant factor, as the rain and the apathy cut the vote of 309,690 registered voters to a low of 17 per cent.

However, Bauman's tough, outspoken conservative Republicanism, his highly coordinated campaign in all parts of the 13-county, rural tidewater area paid off. His region athwart Chesapeake Bay embraces more than half the land area of the state.

It had paid off for Roger C. B. Morton, a Republican who left the House from the first Maryland District to become Secretary of the Interior and before that National Chairman of the Republican Party.

And it paid off for Spiro T. Agnew, who was Governor of Maryland from 1967 to 1969, when he took the oath of office as Vice President. Agnew was the top national figure who spoke for Bauman just before the election. In fact, Bauman might have been speaking of the Vice President also when he criticized those who convict persons in the press, as he welcomed Agnew's support. Apparently Maryland welcomed it, too.

Federal No-Fault

Some 19 states now have variations of no-fault automobile insurance—each driver collects from his own insurance company for his particular damage claims without regard to who was at fault in the accident—but there are limitations. For instance, the law does not apply to out of state accidents, and several are poor imitations of the no-fault concept.

For those reasons, federal no-fault automobile insurance is gaining ground in Congress and is given a chance of enactment into law nationwide by 1974.

The Hart-Magnuson bill, the federal legislation in the field, has been approved by the Senate Commerce Committee. It should be on the floor for action this year. Hearings on the House side are expected this fall and floor action likely in the next session.

The Hart-Magnuson bill gives the states more authority and flexibility to set their own standards within the proposed guidelines. A two-year study by the Department of Transportation found that automobile reparations are inefficient, costly, and inequitable. It found that less than 50 cents of each premium dollar is returned to the injured, two of every three victims do not recover damages and the average wait is 16 months for payment.

This and other developments are pushing federal legislation along. It should pay more people more dollars and save them billions in premium costs.

VIETNAM CHILDREN WANTED—Ten thousand inquiries were received by an American voluntary service when it made known the plight of orphaned South Vietnamese children. There are about 25,000 mites in orphanages there and only half would be adopted under present rules, but 16 agencies, seven black; Catholics and Protestants, are moving to improve intercountry adoption laws, especially for U. S. fathered youngsters. Bless God and Pearl Buck for inspiring these efforts.

AMAZING WHEELCHAIR — Four mechanical and one electrical engineering students rigged up a small, light, battery-motor operated wheelchair with a joy stick for a 5-year-old muscular dystrophy victim, with $200 and gifts of parts from a wheelchair concern. Little Bronwyn Jones has gained "a small but important sense of independence" as she pilots it indoors and out. The students' intelligence and caring made a big difference.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

A Slippery Picture of Dean

WASHINGTON — Former White House aide Charles Colson secretly told the Senate Watergate committee a tale that meshes closely with those of his ex-colleagues John Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman.

We have one of the closely guarded summaries of Colson's closed-door interview with committee staffers in preparation for his testimony next month and have verified its authenticity with Colson.

In it, the brisk buccaneer Colson sided with the White House Hans-and-Fritz team and painted a slippery picture of former presidential counsel John Dean. Nowhere did Colson deeply implicate himself or indicate that President Nixon knew of the Watergate coverup as Dean has charged.

Indeed, Colson charged Dean with his own coverup.

Told to Destroy It

Colson asserted that he sent a memo to Dean outlining some incriminating evidence. "Dean came to (Colson) that day or the next day and told him to destroy (his copy of) it because it impeaches (Nixon campaign Deputy Jeb) Magruder," recorded the summary.

"He did not destroy it," the committee document goes on. Later, Colson told Haldeman and Ehrlichman about his talk with Dean.

The handsome Dean also ordered Watergate conspirator Howard Hunt out of the country after the Watergate break-in, according to a Hunt conversation with Colson's secretary. In the same conversation, Colson reported, Hunt said that "the big boy" — presumably former Attorney General John Mitchell—"demanded they go through with the (Watergate) operation." Mitchell has denied similar charges by others.

Moments of Contrition

Missing from Colson's talk with the staffers is the brash tone that was his hallmark at the White House. To the contrary, there appear to be moments of contrition in his statement, some details of which already have been revealed.

"I approved two ads which were worked up and presented to me for approval and I possibly contributed something to the ads," he conceded. The two ads used names of persons without their permission to attack opponents of the White House Indochina policy.

At another point, he admitted that "Hunt came to me and said he had some hot information with regard to Chappaquiddick . . . and I told him to get it. It did not turn out to be anything significant."

"Hunt," he went on, "made only two trips at my request, one was for the Chappaquiddick papers and the other was to Denver to interview Dita Beard," whose famous memo tied a huge ITT antitrust settlement to a $400 000 GOP campaign offer by ITT.

'Chapman's Reports'

Besides his activist role, Colson received "Chapman's reports," the memos sent to former Nixon aide Murray Chotiner from two of Chotiner's spies in the McGovern press party. "Colson has no knowledge of any other dirty tricks type activities," insists the summary of Colson's statements.

In fact, Colson denied vehemently a claim by Magruder that Colson pushed him to implement the Watergate bugging plan. "Colson called Magruder, who he did not think was doing a very effective job, and told him in no uncertain terms that he should give Hunt and (Watergate conspirator Gordon) Liddy his ear," the Colson summary admitted. But Colson has repeatedly denied he knew bugging was part of the plan.

When the Watergate scandal did break, claimed Colson, he "had a meeting with campaign people wherein he strongly urged that those responsible should be cleaned out."

Footnote: In the confidential four-page summary, obtained by our reporter Ruth Jones, Colson is quoted as saying he though he told Haldeman certain details of Dean's coverup efforts in January, 1973. Colson told us this is inaccurate as well as other sections of the memo.

Bombs Away: Even as nine years of American bombing in Southeast Asia was coming to a halt, a ship loaded with bombs was leaving the East Coast for Southeast Asia.

We have established the identity of the ship and confirmed that it is under charter to the Military Sealift Command. Although its listed port-of-call is a friendly Pacific island, the ultimate destination of the bombs is Thailand. Because of its explosive cargo and the danger of violent reaction at one of its stops, we have decided not to name it.

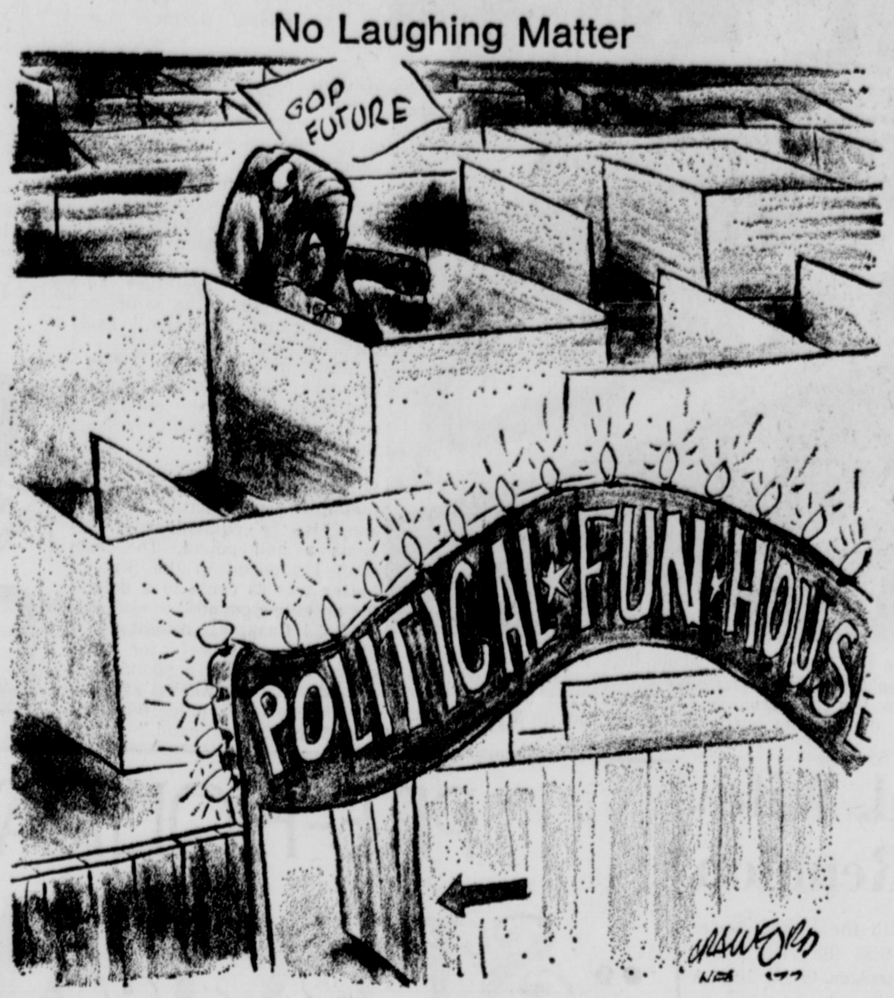

Air Force spokesmen say the bombs are intended as "War Readiness Materials" — the stockpile of military ordinance kept ready in a number of points around the globe to be used in case of war.

Leaf Thief: Petty pilferage by congressional staffers has contributed to a potted plant panic on Capitol Hill.

For years, the national Botanic Garden has supplied plants to festoon congressional offices. Each one is allowed three small plants and one large plant per month. But demand as gone up from 6,000 in 1968 to 9,000 in 1972 and present needs are running even higher.

Popular rubber plants have been out of stock for six months and not even small plants are in the offing for several weeeks. Adding to the greenage crunch is the increased demand on the Botanic Garden to provide plants for exhibitions.

Inside Report

Advice From Mills

WASHINGTON — At a time when his own economic experts are worried sick about runaway inflation, President Nixon has received contrary advice from Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas: consider business tax incentives to prevent a severe recession.

Mills, chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, offered the advice in a secret meeting at the White House with the President some two weeks ago. The only other man in the room to hear Mills's private views was George Shultz, Secretary of the Treasury and Mr. Nixon's economic czar.

Dangerous though the inflationary pressures are, Mills informed the President, he was beginning to feel that the recessionary dangers are worse — particularly a possible sharp rise in unemployment.

Mills next recomended to Mr. Nixon his tentative scheme for a fast tax write-off to divert scarce materials into new plant and equipment, a means of both fighting inflation and cushioning a recession. Although such a plan has been contemplated by Mills all summer (and was reported by us six weeks ago), this was the first time he had presented it to the President.

Mr. Nixon was noncomittal, asking Shultz to look into it. In fact, no serious consideration has yet taken place at the Treasury. What's more, Mr. Nixon's advisors still believe that the inflation crisis is so severe that Mills would be better off looking into a tax increase.

A footnote: Having finally taken his doctors' advice for a complete rest, Mills is now in excellent physical condition. The aching back which led Mills to announce last month that he might retire from Congress is causing him no trouble today.

Although Republican national chairman George Bush is publicly saying nothing, his deep concern is revealed by the fact that he has on his desk a copy of the complete text of Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson's Aug. 8 speech promising to take the Justice Department out of politics.

Moreover, Bush's worry mirrors the concern of other top party leaders — and at least one of President Nixon's senior aides — that, in taking his department out of politics, Richardson may be closing political doors the party needs opened.

Bush tells intimates he is in full accord with Richardson's determination to eliminate the disastrous political overlap with law enforcement procedures that have resulted in indictments of two former Nixon cabinet members.

But how far does Richardson really intend to go in his new order that every department must report any conversation or contact with outside parties, including members of Congress?

Similarly, does Richardson's edict barring announcements by Congressmen of lucrative Justice Department grants to their hometowns mean that House members and Senators also will be denied the right to propose U.S. attorneys and federal judges for presidential nomination?

If Richardson does not show up for the Sept. 10 meeting of the Republican National Committee it will be regarded by Bush and other party leaders as a sign that the Attorney General means business about leaving politics to the politicians. The White House is making efforts to see that cabinet members, including Richardson, attend the meeting.

The fact Richardson made his speech during the congressional recess raised suspicions of party leaders, particularly in the Midwest and South. They believe the Attorney General waited for Republican Congressmen to leave town before exploding his bombshell.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, who like many leading Democrats is privately concerned about the lack of a viable alternative to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy for the 1976 presidential nomination, is grumbling that his junior colleague from Minnesota, Sen. Walter Mondale, is to shy in putting himself forward nationally.

Humphrey's irritation came out during a private meeting in Louisville, Ky., with fried chicken magnate John Y. Brown Jr., of Louisville during the recent national convention of the Young Democrats. Sitting in was Brown's good friend, John J. Hooker of Nashville, two-time candidate for governor of Tennessee and a close ally of both Humphrey and the Kennedys.

Brown flatly informed Humphrey he intended to run for the Senate from Kentucky next year. Then, turning to national politics, he informed Humphrey that Ted Kennedy really seemed to be gearing up for the 1976 campaign. Why, asked Brown, didn't Humphrey endorse Kennedy?

No, Humphrey replied, he was comitted to Mondale. But he then began to complain that Mondale, endorsed for President by Humphrey on election night 1972, was not getting around the country to build himself up. "I'm afraid the boy just doesn't have much ambition," snapped Humphrey.

A 'Real' Italian Princess

The effect is whitewashed catacombs. There are no tombs of saints in the walls, but there is an aura of Roman dungeons. An old friend, Bill Kofoed, said the dinner was superb Italian, so we took a chance. It turned out to be a nine course, no menu dinner. We ate what the waiter brought, and what he brought, was delicious, although we identified very little of it.

There was a piece of beef baked inside what appeared to be an apple turnover. Nine courses, I learned, required an entire evening. But that is not the story. What is more fascinating than the food is the owner. She is a plump dark dumpling named Marcella. The lady is Italian, and has an accent like Henry Armetta.

The face is a round pink moon which reflects whatever she thinks. She smiles, she frowns, expresses pity, fear, sexiness, attention, and, at times, blesses herself to ward off whatever evil is being discussed.

"Why did you build your restaurant in Miami?" I said. She lit the moon. "It is close to Rome in climate, no?" "Yes." She drew a chair close to our table, chatted, left to confer the radiance of a smile on neglected customers, returned, and left again. I had never seen her, or her restaurant before, but I was beset by the feeling that there was a story in Marcella of the heaving bosom.

She continued to play musical chairs. I seldom had time for more than two questions at a time, but I knew that I was in the presence of a happy woman, or a camouflaged fake. Her grandfather owned a small farm adjacent to the walls of Vatican City. Marcella and her family grew up planting and harvesting vegetables in the middle of Rome.

Vatican lawyers in long black cassocks visited grandpa. The Pope, they said, was going to build an 18-mile private railroad between St. Peter's and the summer palace at Castel Gandolfo. A gate would be built in the Vatican wall adjacent to grandpa's farm and the tracks would run across the edge of his property. How much would he want for the right of way? Grandpa was a good Catholic. He said His Holiness could not afford what he would want.

The Vatican lawyers were hurt. Grandpa said he would grant the tracks, the little railroad bridge over his creek,, in return for a written promise to educate his granddaughters free. The documents were signed. The Pope got his railroad; Marcella got an education.

A good part of what the nuns taught her was that practically everything was a sin — most especially romantic thoughts. Marcella couldn't dispossess the thoughts. She fled to America with her mother.

She was here awhile when the Immigration Department notified her that her visitor's permit had expired — she would have to return to Rome. Marcella is an ample woman; there is lots of room for panic. She was hysterical.

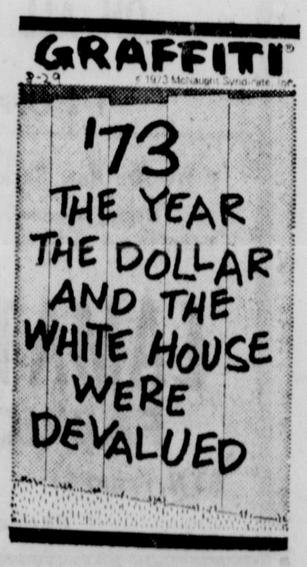

A miracle occurred. A friend said that there was an elderly man named Aiken in Miami who would marry Marcella sight unseen if she would not hold him to his vows. Frightened, ashamed, she took a chance. The old man became her handshaking husband. Marcella was a U.S. citizen.

She opened a pizza parlor in Miami to be near the cordial man who asked nothing in return. The shop is still next door to the big white cave of a restaurant she opened later. Marcella worked hard. Her English remained permanently fractured. But her face became a reflection of Roman candles on a starry night.

Marcella owns a house near her two restaurants. In the backyard, she raises her own basil, oregano, tomatoes, and other goodies. Joshing, I asked if she had buried Mr. Aiken under the vegetables. Her face displayed horror. Sadly, she murmured: "He is old. Very old. A little sick, you know? He was so good, so noble, when I was young — you know, marriage — that later I date him.

"Five years after the marriage, I make myself his wife. You understand?" I nodded. "So, now I take care of him, but I do not wish to speak of it. I also take care of my mother — 80 something — who knows?"

The ninth course of dinner was a pungent Italian cheese and a bowl of fresh fruit and espresso. We paid the tab and looked back. Kelly smiled. "You said that there is a story in everybody." "I know," I said moodily, "but that's the first time I met a real Italian princess." . . .

SUBWAY STATION RESCUE—A little child, cradled in the arms of a fireman and followed by his anxious mother, gasps for air as he is brought from the smoke-filled Grand Central subway station after part of the ceiling of a tunnel crashed onto the tracks at the height of the evening rush hour. (UPI Telephoto)

NYC Subway Ceiling Crumbles, One Dead

NEW YORK (UPI) — Part of the concrete ceiling crumbled on top of a subway train Tuesday, causing a fire, trapping hundreds of rush-hour commuters in the smoke-filled tunnel and killing one man.

Twenty-two other persons suffered smoke inhalation, heat exhaustion, cuts or other injuries. The temperature inside the tunnel was 115 degrees. It was 98 at ground level, hottest day of the year in the city.

The subway, which runs from Times Square in Manhattan to Shea Stadium and the 1964 World's Fair site at Flushing Meadows, was out of commission from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. The accident site was near the United Nations' building on the East River.

About 200 persons trapped in the damaged train waited an hour and a half before they were carried or led back to the Grand Central Station terminal, 500 yards away.

The man killed was Robert Beyer, 35, of suburban West Islip, N.Y. He was standing at a subway door crushed by a huge chunk of concrete.

"My God, I thought we'd all die. All of a sudden the whole wall of the car caved in," said Ellis Mayher, a passenger in the car hit by the 12-by-25 foot concrete slab.

The falling concrete struck an electrical power circuit, causing a small electric fire that belched black smoke so thick it disrupted street traffic near the United Nations' building.

"It was so unbearably hot," Miss Mayher said. "You could hardly breathe. You could hardly see. There was a lot of screaming at first, a lot of crying, a lot of fainting.

"The whole wall came in. A number of women were hit by flying glass," she said.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, who climbed down the narrow stairs of an escape passage to view the scene, ordered an investigation.

"We don't know why the ceiling fell," Dr. William J. Ronan, chairman of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, said. "It's a very old tunnel."

Newspapers Cut Back as Shortage Continues

By United Press International

It's not that there's been less news lately, it's just that there's less paper and so some newspapers have been thinner.

The Wall Street Journal said this week it was forced to trim the number of pages and cut its printing run because of the newsprint shortage which is caused by strikes against Canadian paper mills and Canadian railroads. The Journal cut its editorial page in half, eliminating the daily cartoon, humor section and reviews. The righthand part of the editorial page has been used for news stories and continuations of front page matter.

Elsewhere around the nation, newspapers with short supplies of paper have taken measures ranging from reducing the size of comic strips, to putting limits on advertising, to eliminating Saturday editions, a United Press International survey showed.

Canada's Parliament will consider legislation today to order an end to the six-day-old strike against the Canadian Pacific, Canadian National and nine smaller lines.

Canada's third largest paper producer, Abitibi Pulp and Paper Co., has resumed contract talks with the United Paperworkers International Union. The company is not struck, but union and industry observers believe a settlement at Abitibi could set a pattern for other companies that have been shut down by strikes.

Two Minneapolis papers, the afternoon Star and the morning Tribune, began reducing their edition sizes last week. The Sunday Tribune cut down on Sunday.

The Pittsburgh Press said it would suspend or curtail some editorial features, restrict advertising volume and limit news stand sales.

In Boise, Idaho, publisher Robert Miller Jr. of the Idaho Statesman, asked his staff for tighter editing, smaller headlines, less art and fewer features to reduce the number of pages.

The Bellefontaine (Ohio) Examiner dropped its Saturday edition last week because of the shortage, but has received a shipment since.

The Cuero (Tex.) Daily Record said that after Sept. 1 it would eliminate its Saturday editions and publish only Monday through Friday because of the shortage and higher newsprint costs.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer dropped some Sunday features because of the shortage and used leftover holiday color rolls for some Tuesday editions.

The Milwaukee Journal said its paper would be smaller and fewer copies would be sold.

The Milwaukee Sentinel reduced its size.

Madison Newspapers Inc., publisher of the Wisconsin State Journal and the Madison Capital Times, said it had not received a paper shipment since Aug. 10. The papers restricted ad sizes, eliminated some features and cut down news stand sales.

Executions in Syria

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The Syrian secret police have secretly executed 42 army officers following an abortive attempt to assassinate President Hafez Assad, foreign diplomats in the Syrian capital report.

Syrian informants said 60 or so officers had disappeared after being arrested by the secret police, which is headed by Assad's brother, Col. Rifaat Assad.

The diplomats said the president was ambushed on July 12 as he was touring northern Syria. His car was riddled by bullets, and a report published in Beirut a week after said he was shot in the leg. Lebanese doctors who treated him at the time said they performed minor surgery to correct a leg inflammation.

The diplomats said the plotters were Sunni Moslems, the majority sect in Syria, who resented Assad's systematic promotion of Alawite Moslems to senior positions in the army. Assad is an Alawite, and the sect has come to dominate the ruling Baath Socialist party since he seized power in November 1971.

Along with the arrests, the Assad brothers were reported to have instituted a widespread purge of Sunni Moslems among junior officers. The diplomats said no senior officers have been reported implicated in the assassination attempt. But there was speculation that the defense minister, Gen. Mustafa Tlas, who is the only Sunni Moslem in the Baath hierarchy, might become vulnerable if the purge continues.

The Sunnis have been in opposition to Assad's regime since it made public a new nonsectarian constitution in March that did not designate Islam the state religion. At least 55 persons were reported killed and more than 60 wounded when the army quelled rioting mobs of Sunnis in Homs, Hama, Aleppo and Latakia.

Abbie Hoffman Arrested On Cocaine Sale Charges

NEW YORK (UPI) — Abbie Hoffman, a Chicago Seven defendant and founder of the Youth International Party (Yippies), was jailed Tuesday night on charges of trying to sell $500,000 worth cocaine.

Three other persons were arrested with Hoffman. They were held and ordered to appear in court today for arraingment.

Police said an undercover agent posing as a buyer arranged to purchase the illegal drug, a derivative of opium, in a downtown hotel. Police Lt. Robert Mann said Hoffman had a grocery bag with three pounds of cocaine, which Mann said was worth about $500,000 on the street.

The detective who set up the arrests said he had agreed to pay Hoffman $35,000.

"It's called a 'buy and bust' in the trade," Mann said. Until the time of the arrest, Mann said "we did not know about Hoffman."

Moratorium Extension Doubtful

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

The New Paltz Town Planning Board has officially requested a further moratorium on subdivisions from the town board, but it appears doubtful it will get it.

The two boards met in closed session Monday, and the planning board outlined its request to the town board.

Dr. David Mesches, chairman of the planning board, said Tuesday that the planning board was seeking a 45-day moratorium on subdivisions, to begin before the next planning board meeting Sept. 10.

New Paltz underwent a 45-day moratorium on subdivisions which ended Aug. 15. The maratorium was supposed to allow the planning board time to come up with revisions in the town's subdivision ordinance.

The planning board's recommendations, designed to inhibit growth and preserve open space, included the upzoning of more than 80 per cent of the town and were roundly decried by nearly all of the people attending the public hearing on the proposed changes earlier this month as being a threat to property values and the middle-income homeowner.

Mesches said the planning board was requesting the additional moratorium because there is still no change in the zoning and the same problems facing the board at the time of the last moratorium are still present. "it will be necessary to make revisions" in the proposed changes and time is needed for that, and the planning board had originally asked for a 90-day moratorium.

The public hearing on the moratorium in June was nearly as heated as the public hearing on the zoning changes; and resulted in a compromise move by the town board, shortening the advertised 90-day moratorium to 45 days.

Town Supervisor Theodore Lasher said Tuesday, however, that despite the planning board's moratorium request he did not think his board was going to grant one. He said no official action had been taken on the maratorium, but he felt when final action was taken it would not be favorable.

The hiatus between the end of the maratorium and the adoption of whatever changes in zoning the planning board and the town board agree on should prove to be a boon to local contractors. If the town board fails to adopt a moratorium which starts before the next planning board meeting, potential subdividers with their plans in order can apply for subdivisions under the present regulations. Lasher said there was "no legal way to stop them."

The main features of the changes the planning board had recommended to the town board for adoption were the upzoning of the present agricultural zone from one acre per dwelling unit to three and five acres per dwelling unit, and the upzoning of the residential R1 zone from half-acre to one acre zoning.

The planning board has been waiting for the county planning board to act on the proposed changes before making any revisions in its recommendations. The county planning board met on the proposed changes Monday night, and agreed with the agricultural zone move, but not with the residential move.

Mesches said Tuesday that support of the county planning board of the "overall concept" would "strengthen our point of view."

According to Ulster County Planning Director Herbert Hekler, the county board had no objections to the move on the agricultural districts in the light of the town's aims to hold down growth and preserve open space in those areas.

Tugboat 'Lilly' Rams RR Bridge

KINGSTON

The trains crept very gingerly over the Penn Central railroad bridge that spans the Rondout Creek Tuesday night while emergency pumps kept a stricken tugboat afloat several hundred feet below.

The drama unfolded at about 7:30 p.m. Tuesday when—for reasons apparently still unknown — the tugboat "Lilly" rammed into the bridge abutment that supports the steel railroad span.

Some chipped concrete was the only visible sign of damage inflicted on the bridge. The tugboat didn't fare as well. Two gasoline-powered water pumps were commandeered from a nearby shipyard and installed on the boat when the unidentified skipper radioed ashore that his tug was drawing water.

The Kingston Fire Department was called to the scene with several portable pumps that, as it turned out, weren't needed. The tugboat, with pumps still running, remained resting against the trestle today.

High above, meanwhile, freight trains proceeded cautiously. Traffic on the rail line was halted for several hours until an inspection of the bridge revealed that the span was still safe for travel. But the first train over, nevertheless, was cautioned to proceed at five miles per hour by the Penn Central dispatcher. Subsequent trains proceeded at normal speeds.

The tugboat, which was pulling two barges at the time of the mishap, is reportedly owned by the River Towing Company.

Board Member Is Appointed

ELLENVILLE

Ellenville School Board met in special session Tuesday night to name a new school board member to replace Eugene Houck who resigned his post Aug. 2.

According to School Superintendent Thomas Hayden, the board named Artiel Moss of Napanoch as the new member to serve until the annual meeting in May at which time school board elections are held.

The board also agreed to raise the price of milk in the schools to ten cents. Previously children were charged four cents for white milk and five cents for chocolate milk. The increase in price was necessitaed due to the lack of federal funds for reimbursement of the cost of milk.

Fire Destroys Area Home

SHAWANGUNK VALLEY

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a single family home on New Prospect Road in Shawangunk Valley Tuesday night, despite the efforts of volunteer firefighters from three neighboring companies.

The fire reportedly began in a back room of a home occupied by the Fletcher family in Shawangunk Valley. The interior of the home was completely gutted.

The family was outside when the fire broke out, but five volunteers suffered minor smoke inhalation battling the blaze.

7 Injured In Accident

NEW PALTZ

Seven members of a New York City family were injured slightly Tuesday afternoon when their car struck a bridge railing on the New York State Thruway in the Town of New Paltz.

The car driven by 42-year-old Charles Wilson of New York City reportedly blew a left rear tire, swerved out of control and struck the railing at milepost 81 in the northbound lane.

Doctors Ambulance Service of Kingston transported Wilson, his wife and their five children to Kingston Hospital, where they received treatment for abrasions and contusions.

Short Circuit

A short circuit in an extension cord leading to a hot dog machine brought Kingston city firefighters to Mahoney's Pub at 352 Broadway Tuesday at 6:27 p.m. The small fire was out on arrival and no damage was reported to the building.

THE GOSSIP COLUMN

By ROBIN ADAMS SLOAN

TESSA: Sweet 16 and six feet up.

WELCH: Wants revelation.

Q: I read that the author of "Papillion" died. Can you tell anything else about him? I know he had been a convict. — H.W., New Orleans.

A: At his death in Madrid recently, Henri Charriere was 66 and a multimillionaire from his one best-seller about escaping from Devil's Island-type penal colonies. He left his publishers a final book, "Banco," a memoir dealing with his exploits and his determination to return to France to seek revenge for his imprisonment. Charriere was about to go on a publicity tour for the movie version of "Papillion."

Q: Is Greece's King Constantine really broke? — Y.P., Boston.

A: Well, all his lands and holdings in Greece have been confiscated by the colonels and the King says he is moving his family from Rome to England "because I can't pay my rent." ('The Greek royal family was living in Princess Paolozzi's villa at a cost of $1,200 a week.) The family still has the so-called Romanoff jewels, but the King says he doesn't intend to sell then.

Q: I hear Patricia Neal's little daughter, Tessa Dahl, is doing a movie. What's she like? — G.B., Grand Rapids, Mich.

A: The "little" daughter, although 16, is over six feet tall and beautiful. She and her actress mother were together in New York recently and we were all enchanted to hear this striking young actress, who does seem much older than her years and quite sexy in her low-cut dress, call her mother "Mommie."

Q: Why did Raquel Welch resign from making "The Three Musketeers"? I am disappointed. — J.P., Portland, Maine.

A: She first gave the reason as "artistic differences," but the latest word is that the producers flew from Spain to Hollywood and talked her into coming back. Inside word is that Raquel wanted her 17th-century tavern wench costume to be more revealing. Distracting from her acting?

Q: Where's that divine Bette Midler these days? I saw her on TV a few times, but nothing new lately. — P.W., Savannah, Ga.

A: The divine Miss M. sings the theme song "Friends" in the new hit film, "The Last of Sheila." She is busy now making an album with material ranging from "Higher to Higher" to "Chattanooga Choo Choo." Three ABC TV specials are scheduled beginning next March. Bette is also preparing for a 30-stop tour opening at the Mississippi River Festival in Edwardsville, Ill., on August 28 and ending in Philadelphia on Nov. 28. She was to play a Broadway role as a girl who tries to transform herself into Barbra Streisand, but her manager nixed this. Bette is struggling over which direction her career should take. She doesn't want to be a "freak attraction."

TEMPER TANTRUM OF THE WEEK: There was Marlene Dietrich in the airport at Palma, Majorca, being gracious and smiling and accepting a huge bouquet from a welcoming committee. Seconds later she got so irritated with a local photographer that she bashed him over the head with the bouquet.

Ford to Make More Radial Tires

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Domestic production of steel-belted radial tires will quadruple in the coming year and they will be standard equipment on two-thirds of all Ford Motor Co.'s 1974 model cars, a company official said Monday.

Harold MacDonald, Ford's vice president for product development, said U.S. rubber companies would produce about 22 million of the high-durability tires for factory installation in the 1974 models of all the makers. This is up from about 4 million last year, he said.

With four tires and one spare on each car, that would mean more than 5 million U.S.-made 1974 model autos equipped with over 25 million factory-installed radials on the road a year from now.

U.S. auto production currently is running at a rate of about 12 million autos a year.

MacDonald said Ford, the nation's second largest automaker, is making radials standard on 37 of its 68 domestic models, including the largest and most expensive ones. They will be optional on all other Ford autos.

About 25 per cent of the firm's 1973 models rolled off the assembly lines with radials.

MacDonald said the radials would be produced domestically at 19 plants owned by Firestone, General, Goodrich, Goodyear and Uniroyal. They also will be produced at Michelin plants in France, Germany and Italy.

Other domestic auto manufacturers have announced plans to expand use of the radials on 1974 models, but Ford's is the most ambitious announcement yet.

GM, which will not preview its new cars until early next month, says it will offer the steel-belted radials "in significant quantities" in 1974. The auto giant introduced radials on some 1973 models.

Chrysler is offering radials as optional equipment on all models in 1974. During the 1973 model run, they were sold only on some models.

American Motors says it plans to continue selling radials as optional equipment this year.

"Our tests indicate the average driver can expect to get 40,000 miles of service with these tires under normal driving conditions," MacDonald said.

Radials have been cited widely for their resistance to punctures, better traction on sharp turns and a smoother ride.

The Environmental Protection Agency has reported use of the radials will result in a fuel savings of about 10 per cent because of reduced rolling resistance.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices opened higher in light trading Wednesday on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average had risen 0.07 to 872.14, shortly after the opening. Advances were nearly double declines among the 345 issues traded.

Stocks continued to rebound, apparently attracting some bargain-hunting after a month of steady losses. The Dow climbed 1.36 to 872.07, but with little in the news background to encourage a return to a normal level of trading, volume remained sub-par

Grant Approved For Orangetown

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)— The federal government has approved a $96,000 grant-in-aid to the Rockland County town of Orangetown for use in developing the Borst Memorial Gardens in the hamlet of Pearl River, Gov. Rockefeller's office said today.

The location, which contains rare species of plant life, is intended for educational use in botany and horticulture.

Revamped Rules For West Point

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States Military Academy has revamped its rules book in the most comprehensive change of regulations in the academy's 171-year history.

The new, streamlined revisions of the academy's Blue Book went into effect Tuesday and they stress that tomorrow's officers in the U.S. Army should use more self-discipline and common sense.

Cadets, in situations demanding the use of common sense, are now supposed to know what not to do or where not to go.

Officials cited several examples such as "No shoes will be worn in the shower room" and "Showers will be fully turned off after use."

Those rules remain in effect, but a cadet is expected to know that a shower must be turned off without such a rule being printed in the rulebook.

Also gone under the new regulations are the confinement punishments under which a cadet could be confined to his room for periods of up to six months.

However, such traditional punishments such as "area tours," the marching back and forth in full uniform with a rifle, have been retained.

Lt. Gen. William A. Knowlton, West Point superintendent said the revisions were not being made in response to cadet pressure, but were the result of a "re-evaluation" which would allow the academy to adapt to society.

He said he had been planning to institute reforms for the past few years.

Academy officials said that under the new system, efforts will be made not only to punish cadets but to explain to them how the infractions can be avoided in the future.

U. S. Dollar Drops Again

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar dropped in value on European money markets today in the middle of a see-saw week. Gold held firm.

In London the dollar opened at $2.4618 to the British pound, down from Tuesday's $2.4585. The dollar sank a few more points in early trading.

Against the strong West German mark, the dollar sank to 2.4575 marks, down from 2.4710 marks Tuesday.

In Paris the unofficial financial dollar opened at 4.375 francs and the official commercial dollar at 4.525 francs. Both were below Tuesday's closing figures.

The dollar also weakened in Zurich, opening at 3.028 Swiss francs compared with 3.049 overnight. Amsterdam's exchange marked the dollar down to 2.6888 guilders.

Gold opened the day at $104.50 an ounce in London, the same as Tuesday's closing price.

Drowning

CRARYVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Charles Hines, 31, of Hudson, drowned Tuesday night in Copake Lake, Columbia County, when he tried to swim to shore after his fishing boat capsized.

Hines' companions reported his disappearance and police divers recovered the body, police said.

Hines lived at 5 Mill St.

Reade Sells 7

NEW YORK — The Walter Reade Organization, Inc. (O-T-C) has sold seven New Jersey theater properties, all of which were acquired through the merger of Mayfair Atlantic Corp., it was announced today by Sheldon Gunsberg, president of the company.

Four of the theaters: The Lorraine, Bay Head, Baronet, Long Branch, The Colonial and Strand, Seaside Park will be converted to commercial properties, while The Strand, Plainfield; Community Moorristown; and The Arnold, Point Pleasant will continue as cinemas. The seven theaters were sold to six individual owners. In addition, the Walter Reade office building in Asbury Park has also been sold. In each case, the sale price was in excess of the book value.

Gunsberg said that the sale of the properties is part of the plan which was announed at the last shareholders' meeting to expand the company's theater holdings in major cities and divest itself of its properties in smaller non first-run situations.

Last week Gunsberg announced the acquisition of the operation of two theatres in Manhattan: The Cine Malibu and The Cinema Village and that a new theater, The King, was being constructed for the company in Seattle, Wash., to open in the fall. This now brings the total number of theaters operated by the Walter Reade Organization to 62. The company operates theaters in the following major cities: New York, San Francisco, Boston, Chicago, Atlanta, New Orleans, Portland and in London.

The Reade organization operates the Community, Mayfair and Sunset Drive-In Theaters in Kingston.

HOWARD SAMUELS

Samuels at New Paltz Sept. 9

NEW PALTZ

Howard Samuels, New York City OTB head and a leading candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination for the 1974 race, is scheduled to attend the New Paltz Democratic community picnic Sunday, Sept. 9.

The picnic will be held at Bontecou Farm on Route 32 North in New Paltz, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kellar, with food serving to begin at 1 p.m., and Samuels to be there from 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The 53-year-old Samuels has been regularly seeking the Democratic nod for Governor since 1962, and many political observers give him an excellent chance of receiving it for the 1974 race.

A self-made millionaire through his Canandaigua County-based Kordite Corp., Samuels has held such key posts as administrator of the Federal Small Business Administration, and U.S. Under Secretary of Commerce. He was defeated for the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1970 by Arthur Goldberg in a hard-fought primary, and was the Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor in 1966.

Of special local interest is Samuels' stand on the proposed jetport at Steward Airport in Newburgh. He has said that if he were elected governor he would stop action on Stewart until more studies and greater local particaption is secured He also believes the cost of the facility has been underestimated, and has doubted its usefulness, pointing out that it will be even farther away from a metropolitan center than under-used Dulles Airport near Washington, D.C.

Other attractions at the New Paltz Democratic picnic, in addition to Samuels and the barbecue meal, include an old-fashioned auction, a sweepstakes for prizes, children's games, and sketch portraits by artist Odin Waugh.

The event is sponsored by the New Paltz Democratic Club. The picnic coordinator is Mrs. Verlin L. Hoberecht.

Boating Course Slated

KINGSTON

A 10-week course emphasizing safety in the proper operation of all types of boats, especially the family outboard, will be offered beginning Sept. 10 by the Mid-Hudson Power Squadron.

Registration for the course, which will be open to all interested persons over 12 years old, will be Sept. 10 at 7:30 p.m. at Kingston High School.

Aimed to teach the minimal knowledge required for safe boating, completing the course will increase the boatman's confidence, according to C. Max Taylor, commander of the Mid-Hudson Squadron.

"It will lay a basic foundation for building boating skills by further study, application and experience," he said.

The course's classes will cover such objects as boat handling under normal and adverse conditions, rules of the road, aids to navigation, compass and chart familiarization, running lights and equipment, boat trailering and river boating.

"A boater, being responsible for himself and his passengers, who goes out on the water without a proper knowledge of the rules of the road, safety requirements or aids to navigation, is asking for trouble," cautioned Taylor. "With the information he may gain from this free instruction, he can have his boat properly equipped and be able to cope with the many situations he may face on the water."

The Mid-Hudson Power Squadron is one of more than 400 units of the United States Power Squadron, the largest volunteer educational organization for boatmen in the world. Its members are dedicated to promote safety in boating through education and donate their time to this service.

Central Voter Registration Is Underway

Central registration for voters is now in progress at the Board of Elections Office, Sixth Floor, Ulster County Office Building, Main and Fair Streets in Kingston, daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, unitl Sept. 11. From then until Dec. 6 the Board of Elections is closed to central registration.

There will be, however, two days of local registration at town and city polling places on Thursday, Oct. 11 and Saturday, Oct. 13, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. each of the days.

Prospective voters must register in person and present proof of age and local residence. A voter may enroll in a party or change enrollment at registration times.

Permanent Personal Registration is permanent only as long as a voter continues at the address from which he or she is registered; and as long as the voter has voted in a November election within the last two years. Therefore, a voter who has moved or has not voted since November 1970 would be required to re-register.

Persons who will be 18 years of age by Nov. 7, may register to vote in the coming election.

Persons already registered who have legally changed their names by marriage or court order are required to appear in person to make the name change.

Army Reserve Wants Women Recruits

The Army Reserve is looking for women recruits!

In a release to the Freeman women's department, the U.S. Army Reserve Command in Fort Totten, Flushing, N.Y., has announced the introduction of a basic training course for women requiring only two weeks of active duty. The Reserve wants distaffers in such fields as clerk-typist, stenographer, medical technician, switchboard operator and a whole range of other areas.

For women qualified by virtue of their civilian job, schooling or background, who don't have any prior military service, the Army Reserve Command feels the two weeks of basic training at Fort McClellan, Alabama, are what women would need to become full fledged members of the Reserve . . . and get paid for it, too.

Detailed information about this new program may be obtained at SSG Robert Dietz USAR Center, 144 Flatbush Avenue, Kingston.

Is a 73 Year-Old Swinger Harmless?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I recently became very much attracted to a gentleman who proudly admits to being 73. He's a snappy dresser and is full of fun. I am a middle-aged woman, but this man leaves me in the dust when it comes to dancing, tennis, golf, and any other physical exercise you can name

He seems very much interested in me. My question: At his age, is he harmless?

JOYCE

DEAR JOYCE: If you mean what I think you mean if he's "harmless" he won't be able to do you any good. But whether he can do you any good without doing you any harm will depend on YOUR condition.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: You were wrong when you advised against reporting the fraudulent welfare recipient. If someone told you that he had witnessed a robbery, would you advise him to "judge not"?

Welfare agencies welcome legitimate complaints, and each complaint is objectively investigated. The complainant may remain annonymous if desired, and his name is never revealed to the client. However, vague statements such as, "I know 10 people on welfare who drive Cadillacs and have $1,000 in the bank," are stupid and useless. A person making such a comment usually cannot name a single person who even comes close to that description. Complaints should be as specific and factual as possible.

We find that most complaints are not well-founded because the complainant is trying to "get back" at the recipient, or that he has drawn a wrong conclusion by not knowing all the facts in the case. But it is worthwhile to investigate each complaint.

If fraudulent and ineligible cases can be eliminated from the welfare roles, more resources will be available to help those who are truly in need, and the burden will be lighter on Mr. Taxpayer.

WEST VIRGINIA SOCIAL WORKER

DEAR W.V.S.W.: Thank you for your fair and helpful letter. Your answer was much better than mine. I believe all witnessed crimes should be reported, but encouraging every American to "inform" on his neighbor for an assumed wrongdoing would lead us uncomfortably close to becoming a police state, and that I abhor.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Regarding that lady who wants to be spanked on her bare bottom: I will gladly oblige her. I am a 68-year-old widower. I am also a retired upholsterer with 50 years experience on seats and bottoms.

Vegetable Ideas for Summer Dinners

Summer is a garland of beautiful fresh vegetables! Invite them to your table and serve each one in an interesting new way.

Treat fresh vegetables tenderly, storing them in the refrigerator carefully as soon as they arrive in your kitchen. Experts have discovered that even with the best of care, fresh produce can lose up to 50 percent of its flavor and freshnes in transit from field to table.

You can do something about that if you have a shaker of Ac'cent on hand. This natural product helps to restore the original peak of flavor in fresh vegetables. Use it to bring summer produce to your table at its best.

While summer's vegetables are delicious served plain, it's also fun to surprise people by serving vegetables new ways. Zucchini is one of the real joys of summer. Try it for a change, shredded and sauteed with scallions, lemon and dill. This is an indescribably delicious dish. Its flavor is subtle; its texture delicate and fresh. You'll want to make it many times, once you try it.

During summer, so often you'll find you have left-over cooked ears of fresh corn. Cut the corn kernels off the cob and use them in a wonderfully savory succotash served in crisp-tender green pepper shells.

A very fine idea for serving vegetables outdoors is to grill vegetable kabobs, allowing a skewer to each person.

Shredded Zucchini Saute

Two tablespoons butter or margarine
One-quarter cup chopped scallions
Three cups shredded zucchini (Two large)
One teaspoon lemon juice
One-half teaspoon salt
One-half teaspoon Ac'cent
One-eighth teaspoon pepper
One-quarter teaspoon dried dill weed.

In large skillet melt butter. Add scallions and cook until tender. Add zucchini, lemon juice, salt, Ac'cent, pepper and dill. Cook uncovered over medium heat for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally.
YIELD: 4 servings.

Succotash-Stuffed Green Peppers

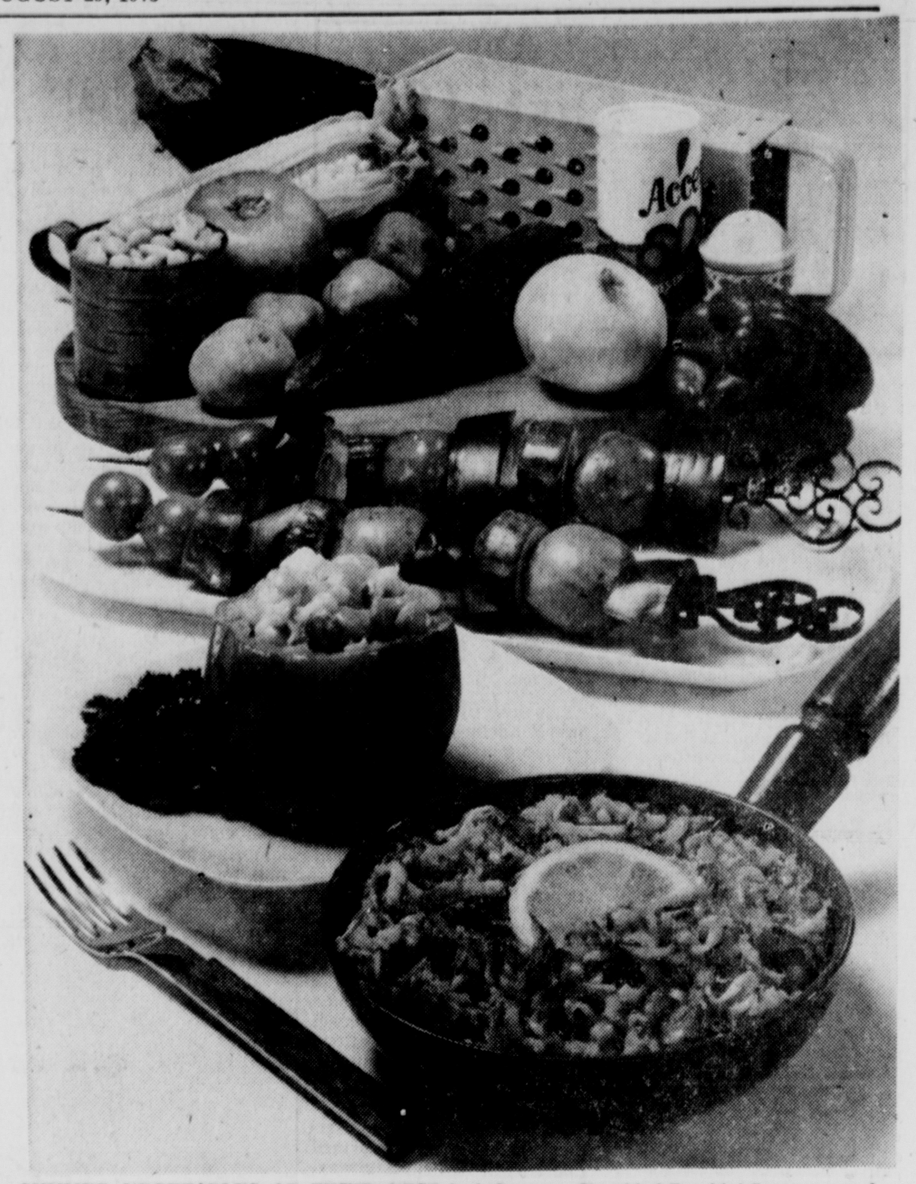

Six green peppers
Two tablespoons butter or margarine
One-half cup chopped onion
Two tablespoons flour
Two teaspoons salt
One teaspoon Ac'cent
One-eighth teaspoon pepper
One-quarter teaspoon paprika
One-quarter teaspoon dry mustard
One-half teaspoon dried leaf majoram
One cup milk
One tomato, peeled and chopped
One tablespoon lemon juice
One and one-half cups cooked lima beans
One and one-half cups cooked corn cut off cob

Remove stems from green peppers; cut off tops, chop and reserve. Fill a large kettle half full with water. Bring to a boil. Remove seeds from peppers. Add pepper shells to water; simmer 5 minutes. Drain well and place in shallow casserole. In large saucepan melt butter. Add onion and chopped green pepper; cook until tender. Blend in flour, salt, Ac'cent, pepper, paprika, dry mustard and marjoram. Stir in milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Remove from heat; stir in tomato, lemon juice, lima beans and corn. Spoon succotash mixture into pepper shells and add one-half inch water to cover bottom of casserole. Bake in 350 degree F. oven 15 to 20 minutes.
YIELD: 6 servings.

Vegetable Kabobs

One-half cup butter or margarine
Three tablespoons lemon juice
Two tablespoons chopped parsley
One-half teaspoon salt
One-eighth teaspoon pepper
One-quarter teaspoon dried leaf thyme
Three slices unpared eggplant, cut in quarters
Eight cooked small new potatoes
One medium zucchini, cut in one-half inch slices
One green pepper, cut in squares
One-half teaspoon Ac'cent
Eight cherry tomatoes

In small saucepan melt butter with lemon juice, parsley, salt, pepper and thyme. Alternate vegetables except tomatoes on four 12-inch or eight-inch skewers. Place on grill set 4 inches above charcoal briquets that have reached the light gray ash stage. Brush vegetables generously with butter sauce, and sprinkle with Ac'cent. Grill 10 minutes, turning occasionally and basting with butter sauce. Just before vegetables are tender, add cherry tomatoes to end of skewers. Continue grilling until all vegetables are tender and tomatoes are heated.
YIELD: 4 servings.

SUMMER VEGETABLES AT THEIR BEST include a new Shredded Zucchini Saute, a novel succotash made from left-over fresh corn, and colorful, flavorful Vegetable Kabobs.

USING COTTAGE CHEESE

Popular ways of eating cottage cheese are plain or in combination with fruits or vegetables to make a nourishing and refreshing salad. Here are some suggestions that can be featured either as an entree for lunch or as a smaller salad to accompany dinner, says Louise K. Breitung, Extension Home Economist.

FRUIT AND COTTAGE CHEESE SALAD

Combine three-quarters cup cottage cheese and one-quarter cup shredded Cheddar cheese. Mound cheese mixture in center of drained canned pear, peach, apricots or pineapple nested on salad greens. Top with dairy sour cream and sprinkle with chopped nuts. (Makes 2 luncheon servings).

COTTAGE CHEESE SALAD RING

One tablespoon plain gelatin
One-quarter cup water
Two cups cottage cheese, sieved (16 oz.)
One quarter cup milk
One teaspoon salt
Two teaspoons lemon juice
Two teaspoons vinegar
One-eighth teaspoon grated onion
One cup dairy sour cream.

Soften gelatin in water, then place over boiling water until completely dissolved. Sieve or beat cottage cheese with electric mixer until smooth. Add milk, salt, lemon juice, vinegar, grated onion and dairy sour cream and mix thoroughly. Stir in melted gelatin: pour into 1 quart mold. Chill several hours or overnight. Unmold on salad greens and serve plain or fill center with fruit, vegetables or seafood. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Suggestions for salad ring filling:

FRUIT — Combine avocado, orange, grapes and banana with sour cream dressing.

VEGETABLES — Combine tomatoes, onion, cucumber and green pepper with Italian dressing.

SEAFOOD — Combine shrimp and celery with seafood dressing.

GOOD EATING WITH BEANS

New York State leads in the United States production of Red Kidney beans and is also an important source of green and wax beans. These beans combined make a flavorful salad or cold vegetable.

THREE BEAN SALAD

One No. 303 can Red Kidney Beans, drained
One No. 303 can Cut Green Beans, drained
One No. 303 can Cut Wax Beans, drained
Three-quarter cup finely chopped onion
Three-quarter cup finely chopped green pepper
Two tablespoons chopped canned pimientos
One-half cup sugar
Three-quarter cup vinegar
One-half cup salad oil
One teaspoon salt
One-half teaspoon black pepper
One teaspoon mixed herbs
One teaspoon chopped parsley

Mix together. Marinate 24 hours in the refrigerator. Use as a vegetable or serve on lettuce as a salad. Serve cold. Makes 1-½ quarts.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE

When the Baker's On a Diet

Dear Heloise:

Here's a hint for those of your readers who are on diets and who also have husbands who like homemade pies and cakes. I discovered that a recipe for a double-crust pie will make two pies in those tins you get meat pies in (about six inches across).

The cake recipe makes one to two dozen cupcakes. My husband gets the goodies he loves in amounts he can easily finish alone and have an extra pie to give to a friend who lives alone and doesn't bake.

The gifts meet with approval and I find it easy to stick to my diet with no left-over pie or cake to nibble on.

Have You Noticed

That you do not need the bathroom for hours and hours at home, but soon after you get on the highway, you think you just can't wait?

Ghost Jon

Dear Heloise:

Your wonderful nylon net did it again.

I was cooking stuffed cabbage and the outer leaves were broken. Your net worked great to hold them in place.

I put the cabbage in and tied it on top. The leaves stayed in place and no loss of dressing.

Ma J.

Dear Heloise:

My little boy was always pinching his fingers on the lid of his toy box when he opened or closed it, so my husband came up with this good idea which really has worked.

He nailed rubber suction cups to the undersides of the toy box lid.

Mrs. Shirley F.

Dear Heloise:

When baking frozen bread, I take it out of the plastic bag, set it in oiled baking pans and put it in the refrigerator overnight.

By morning, it is thawed and doesn't take nearly so long to rise. I do this just before going to bed.

THE WOODSTOCK PLAYHOUSE
THE TIMES UNION
'The Boys from Syracuse' Production Is Pure Fun
By MARTIN P. KELLY
Drama Critic
Shakespeare's "The Comedy of Errors" has provided a worthy model for "The Boys From Syracuse," a 1930s musical by George Abbott with music and lyrics by Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart.
DIRECTOR Richard Ronald Beebe has literally pulled out all the stops, to coin a phrase, in his staging of the musical. Every comic device and burlesque routine in existence seems to be used in this production with wild, hilarious effectiveness.
The cast at Woodstock, involved in productions of "As You Like It," "Julius Caesar," "Kiss Me Kate" and "Your Own Thing," display marvelous ensemble in this musical playing with each actor contributing to the comedy. There isn't a straight man in the bunch.

The Daily Freeman
Colorful 'Kate'
The National Shakespeare Company's production of KISS ME KATE staged in the Woodstock Playhouse Tuesday night combined the best of authors' wit, Cole Porter's popular music, and actors' effervescence and skill. Producing Director Philip Meister exercised an instinct for good theatre when he scheduled KATE for this area. People here like to be entertained.
The robust musical, based on Shakespeare's TAMING OF THE SHREW, has all the ingredients for an evening of lively entertainment —various shades of comedy, satire, spirited production numbers and well paced action.
Cole Porter's music, of course, is just as alive and vigorous today as when it was first introduced. It certainly constitutes a tremendous contribution to American culture and remains forever popular. This makes KATE a wise choice for summer theatre.

New County Agricultural Districts Closer to Approval

By CARL GRAHAM

WALLKILL — Two proposed agricultural districts in the towns of Shawangunk and Gardiner took the second step along the long and complicated road to full approval Tuesday night when the Ulster County Legislature held public hearings on them in Wallkill.

The hearings were originally scheduled for the Shawangunk Town Hall but officials took one look at the crowd waiting to get in and hastily shifted the hearings to the ambulance corps building, where about 200 people jammed into the corps meeting hall in sweltering heat.

The two proposed districts were created by petitions from a majority of their residents to the Ulster County Legislature, which conducted the public hearings with Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago wielding the gavel.

The two proposed districts, Wallkill East and Wallkill West, have a combined 4,813 acres, about 60 per cent in Shawangunk. Wallkill East lies mainly between the Wallkill River and Route 208, and Wallkill West lies across the river to the west and includes the former Gardeville Airport property.

Hebert Hekler, director of the county planning board, explained that planners approved Wallkill West in its entirety but objected to inclusion of a small portion of Wallkill East at the south western boundary, saying that inclusion of the area would block off development of some of the most desirable residential development land in the town and would pose problems when the Department of Transportation relocates Route 208 to the east of its present location.

Jack G. Reynolds, director of the Real Property Tax Service Agency, explained tax benefits derived from agricultural districts, saying that farmers must own at least 10 acres of land and have an annual farming income of at least $10,000 to qualify.

Taxes got a major share of attention from the audience, although officials explained that they were only a minor benefit, saying that the real benefit from agricultural districts was in protecting land from the actions of local town planning and zoning boards and making it more difficult, although not impossible, for developers to buy the land and convert it to business or residential use.

Ralph Brach, who represents the 9th District in the county legislature made a strong plea for rejection of the districts, saying they were a tax saving for speculators. He said he wanted the land preserved for agricultural use but felt that strict zoning laws were the proper way to do it.

Victor McCord, one of Branch's opponents in the November election, noted that Brach had voted in favor of creation of two other agricultural districts in the 9th District, and wanted to know why he considered the two being discussed as different. Brach replied that he voted with the best interests of his entire district in mind.

Mark Fried, another of Brach's opponents in November, spoke in favor of the proposed districts, saying the real issue was not tax savings but the protection afforded by official agricultural districts against local legislative action. He said creation of the districts would have little tax effect in the near future for Shawangunk and Gardiner agricultural assessments were far below the point where the state puts limits on their increase.

The next step in creation of the districts involves approval from the planning board and the Agricultural Advisory Committee, represented at the meeting by its chairman, Philip H. Davis. Approval by the county legislature would send the proposals to Albany for consideration and approval by the Department of Environmental Conservation, the Agricultural Resources Commission of the Department of Agriculture, and other state agencies.

KINGSTON, N. Y., WEDNESDAY EVENING, AUGUST 29, 1973 TWENTY-ONE

Special Session Set

KINGSTON — The low bid of $104,370 by Rebena Construction Company of Highland for the construction of an athletic recreation area on the Ulster County Community College Campus, is expected to be accepted Thursday night by the Ulster County Legislature at a special meeting called by Chairman Peter J. Savago.

Rebena was one of four bidders on the project. A.F. Lehmann Construction bid $106,885.25; I. and O. A. Slutzky of Hunter bid $113,470 and Anthony Constanzi Corp. of Kingston bid $116,622.50.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the County Office Building.

The legislators will also consider three other resolutions which are a result of tax abatement arising out of Hurricane Agnes in 1972. They call for the signing of tax warrants, the levying of tax in the Towns of the County of Ulster and the ratification of the tax rolls. All three resolutions are sponsored by Louis Bevier (R-Dist. 8), chairman of the Treasurer's Committee.

The resolution calling for the acceptance of the Rebena Construction bid for the athletic field is sponsored by the Community College Committee, Brian White (R-Dist. 9), chairman.

On July 12, the county allocated funds to pay the cost of the construction, authorizing the issuance of $110,000 in serial bonds and capital notes for drainage seeding and sodding of the field on the Stone Ridge campus.

White said that $44,000 would go toward providing drainage and the balance of the $110,000 would go for seeding, topsoil and sodding, including about $7,000 for legal fees.

State Bureau Confrims Move

KINGSTON — The decision of the Ulster County Board of Elections to reject the Independent nominating petitions of County Legislator Douglas V. Dye and Town of Ulster candidate for supervisor, Robert Stedge, "has been confirmed by the chairman of the state's Election Law Bureau, Thomas Wallace and by 10 other bi-partisan board commissioners of the state.

Announcement of the confirmation was made at a press conference called Tuesday by Election Commissioners John J. Hogan and Edwin F. Callahan.

The local election board decided last Saturday to reject the Dye and Stedge petitions because they were "incomplete."

According to Hogan and Callahan, the two Independent candidates failed to include in their petitions information concerning petitioner's addresses at the time of the last general election. Such information is required by election law, according to Section 138.

The commissioners pointed out that they considered all petitions of Independent candidates last Saturday and that all were in proper order except Dye's and Stedge's.

Callahan also pointed out that there were other discrepancies in the Dye petition, for instance whole pages "were written over," he said, showing the petitions to reporters. But, he said, the election office was not filing objections to anything other than the fact that the petitions were incomplete.

Dye and Stedge have 14 days to appeal the decision or until Sept. 8.

The commissioners pointed out that they do not supply the forms necessary for petitions but recommend to petitioners where they can be secured from a private printing concern which prints legal forms. They stressed that neither Dye nor Stedge sought information concerning Independent petitions from the Election Office as did other Independent petitioners.

Rhinebeck Town Board Sets Mourning Period

RHINEBECK — Acting Supervisor Louis Asher and the Rhinebeck Town Board have declared a ten-day official mourning period in memory of the late Maj. Gen. Walter DeLamater, who died Aug. 25.

The town flag will be flown at half mast during that period in mourning the passing of one of the town's most distinguished and famous residents, who was 93 years of age.

The Dutch Arms Drum and Fyfe Corps, with permission from the Dutch Reformed Church consistory, will place a flag and staff near the cannon memorial of Gen. Richard Montgomery in the church cemetery in honor of Gen. DeLamater, who was an honored member of the corps.

According to Town Justice DeWitt Gurnell, in the general's last appearance at the dedication of the doughboy memorial statue in front of the village hall this year he remarked how proud he was of the corps for its part in the ceremony.

No Opposition At City Hearing

KINGSTON — There was no opposition to a proposal by Whitale Inc., of Kingston to build an office building at the junction of Clinton Avenue Extension and Fair Street Extension at Tuesday night's public hearing held by the Common Council at city hall.

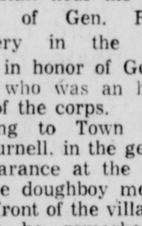

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency proposes to sell the 13,000 square foot parcel to T. Robert Gallo. Whitale for a negotiated sale price of $5,000. Whitale has already been approved by the Common Council as an eligible and financially qualified redeveloper.

Final approval by the Common Council is expected at the Sept. 4 regular meeting. Last night's public hearing was chaired by Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo.

Orioles' Skein Ends at 14

The Streaks Came Tumbling Down

By United Press International

On any given day, baseball folk are fond of saying, even the worst can beat the best. Tuesday was the Texas Rangers' given day.

With the crack of Toby Harrah's bat in the fifth inning and Sonny Siebert's clutch relief pitching in the late innings, Texas finally penetrated Baltimore's invincibility and defeated the Orioles 5-3.

Ended were: Baltimore's 14-game winning streak, the longest in the majors since 1965; Baltimore's nine-game winning streak over the Rangers; and Dave McNally's 17-game winning streak over Texas.

McNally, whose record dropped to 13-14 this year, hadn't been beaten by the Rangers since Sept. 12, 1968. He was tough last night, though, after Harrah singled home Ken Suarez to snap a 3-3 tie in the fifth.

Ranger Manager Whitey Herzog was asked afterward how it felt to beat Baltimore and McNally after losing so often.

"Anytime we win is a cause for celebration," Herzog said.

Herzog wasn't kidding. The Rangers, with 46 victories and 84 losses, own the worst record in the majors. The Orioles, on the other hand, at 75-53, lead the American League East by 4½ games and have the third best record in the majors.

"The Orioles are going to win the pennant," Herzog predicted. "They're a better than good club and they're never going to beat themselves. They're as good on the road as they are at home."

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver didn't appear upset at having the streak broken but said he never tires of winning. "I'll settle for half as many in a row starting tommorrow," Weaver said. "A seven game streak now would put us in good shape."

The Orioles jumped to a 3-1 lead after three innings but Bill Sudakis tied the score with two-run homer in the fourth inning off McNally. After Harrah's RBI put the Rangers ahead to stay in the fifth and Texas added an insurance run on a single and two errors on bunts by Baltimore reliever Bob Reynolds in the seventh, Siebert came on to pitch the final 2 2-3 innings.

He put down an Oriole threat in the seventh with two on and one out and set the Orioles down in the final two innings to earn his second save.

In other AL games, Oakland beat Boston 6-1, Cleveland edged Kansas City 4-3, Minnesota blanked Detroit 5-0, Chicago defeated Milwaukee 6-4 and California stopped New York 5-2.

Ray Fosse's two-run triple and a run-scoring single by Dick Green in the second inning gave Jim Hunter all the help he needed for his 17th victory as Oakland widened its lead in the AL West to 5½ games by beating Boston.

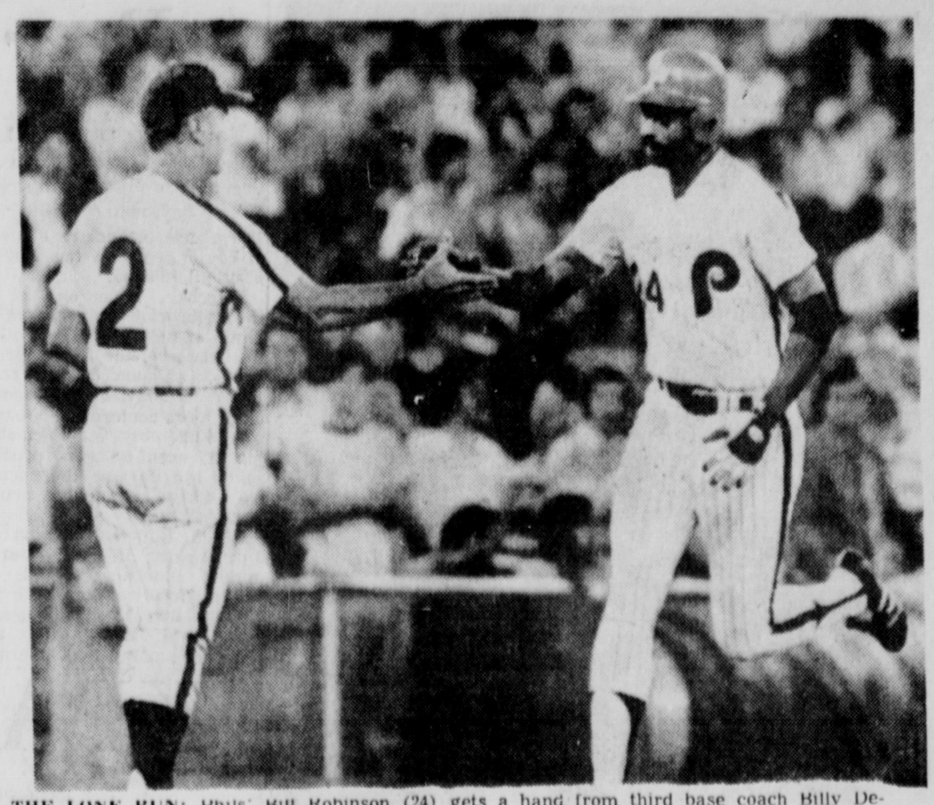

Hunter, making his third start since injuring a thumb in the All-Star game, left after seven innings with a one-hitter and Rollie Fingers finished up. The only hit Hunter gave up was a single off first baseman Gene Tenace's glove by Carl Yastrzemski with two out in the fourth. Hunter now hasn't lost a game since May 29, winning 12 games in that stretch.

John Lowenstein singled in the first run and triggered a three-run sixth inning with a single to pace the Indians over Kansas City and extend the Royals' losing streak to four games.

Joe Decker won his sixth straight game on a five-hitter and Joe Lis drove in a pair of runs with a single and a homer to lead Minnesota past Detroit and hand the Tigers their fourth straight loss.

Tony Muser's two-run double in the eighth inning drove in what proved to be the winning runs as the White Sox stretched their winning streak to four games with the victory over Milwaukee.

Bob Oliver drove in three runs with a homer and a single and Lee Stanton hit a solo homer to pace California over New York and hand the Yankees their seventh straight defeat.

THE LONE RUN: Phils' Bill Robinson (24) gets a hand from third base coach Billy Demars (2) as he rounds third on his way home after hitting the game winning home run in second inning against Giants Tuesday night. Phils won on his lone score, 1-0. (UPI)

Another Step for Aaron

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

Henry Aaron moved another step closer to "the record" Tuesday night but he was overshadowed by the homecoming of a former teammate.

Returning to Atlanta Stadium for the first time since he was traded by the Braves last Winter, former National League batting champion Rico Carty drove in four runs to pace the Chicago Cubs to a 9-6 victory over the Braves.

Carty's performance enabled the Cubs to overcome Aaron's three-run homer in the first inning, a towering drive over the 375-foot mark in left field. It was the 33rd homer for Aaron and the 706th of his career. He needs eight more this season to tie Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714 homers.

If Aaron continues at his present pace, he'll wind up this season at 713—one short of the mark. But he still has a shot at making it this year with a late surge.

Carty, who was traded from Atlanta to Texas last winter and then was shipped to the Cubs earlier this month, hit a two-run homer in the first inning in his first at bat in Atlanta Stadium since leaving the Braves. He added a two-out bases loaded single in the fifth.

Carty had some harsh words for the Braves' management when he was dealt away but he didn't want to go into that Tuesday.

"Yes, I'm glad I hit a homer for the Atlanta fans, but I'm glad to hit them anywhere when we win," Carty said.

Manager Whitey Lockman said, "Rico probably is enjoying being back in Atlanta and hitting a homer but there's nothing personal about it. Rico's not that kind of man."

The victory kept the Cubs 2½ games behind the St. Louis Cardinals in the tight Eastern Division race.

In the other games, St. Louis topped Houston 8-3, Pittsburgh downed Cincinnati 8-3, Los Angeles beat Montreal 6-1, Philadelphia blanked San Francisco 1-0 and New York outlasted San Diego 8-6.

Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, the defending division champions, are both fighting to stay alive as they battle each other. Pittsburgh downed Cincinnati to remain two games behind St. Louis in the East while Cincinnati dropped 4½ games back of Los Angeles in the West.

Al Oliver's two-run homer touched off a four-run sixth inning and paced the Pirates over Ross Grimsley. Bob Johnson worked the final 3 1-3 innings to save Bob Moose's ninth win. Reds' manager Sparky Anderson said the Reds can afford to lose only seven more games because he thinks it'll take 100 wins to beat out the Dodgers.

Claude Osteen won his 16th game with a five-hitter and Steve Garvey drove home two runs to pace the Dodgers the Expos. Osteen, boosting his record to 16-6, walked three and struck out two and registered his 12th lifetime victory in 14 decisions against Montreal.

Lou Brock hit a two-run single and Tommie Agee homered to pace St. Louis over the Astros. Brock's two-run hit climaxed a four-run fourth inning rally. Alan Foster pitched a six-hitter in boosting his record to 11-7.

The Mets scored five runs in the sixth inning to beat the Padres. Wayne Garrett started the rally with a homer as the Mets gave Jon Matlack, who was lifted in the eighth inning, enough help to record his 11th victory.

Wayne Twitchell hurled a four-hitter to outduel Juan Marichal and give the Phillies the victory over the Giants. Bill Robinson's 23rd homer was all the offensive help Twitchell needed.

UNIMPRESSED? 16-year-old Annette Corbert seems less than impressed as famed Australian tennis star Ken Rosewall gives her some pointers as he conducts tennis clinic for youngsters in Harlem Tuesday. (UPI)

Top Horses To Vie In Marlboro

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the greatest fields in the history of thoroughbred racing may be brought together for the $250,000 Marlboro Cup at Belmont Park on Sept. 15 as six former big stakes winners have accepted invitations to tackle wonder horse Secretariat and stablemate Riva Ridge in the 1⅛ mile event.

The Gold Cup, which was originally supposed to be a match race between Secretariat and Riva Ridge for a winner-take-all purse, took on some extra glitter Tuesday when it was announced that Key to the Mint, Cougar II, Kennedy Road, Annihilate 'Em, Onion and Tentam had accepted invitations to compete in the race.

If all eight horses start it would bring together a group who have won close to $5 million in purses and compiled 106 victories, including 67 stakes titles.

Of course, there is the distinct possibility that all will not start. Two of the trainers have accepted the invitation with reservations. Trainer Elliot Burch said Key to the Mint would start only if his colt was in proper condition and the weights were acceptable. Also, trainer MacKenzie Miller said that Tentam's participation in the Gold Cup was contingent on how the colt fared in the $100,000-added Governor Stakes at Belmont on Sept. 8.

Open Tennis Tournament A Victory Over Politics

By MIKE HUGHES
UPI Executive Sports Editor

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Politics within the game has kept the world's top tennis players from competing together for the past 12 months but all of them, including the two top seeds, Stan Smith and Ilie Nastase, will be at Forest Hills today for the start of the richest U.S. Open championship in history.

This year's prize money amounts to $227,200 with both singles titles worth $25,000 to the winner. Smith and Billie Jean King are the respective favorites. It is the first time in history the women have played for a similar prize as the men.

Mrs. King, who is seeking her fifth title to go with her five Wimbledon crowns, was under a cloud because she, along with 1967 champion John Newcombe of Australia and Federation Cup captain Linda Tuero, had signed contracts with World Team Tennis which does not have federation approval.

Signing of contracts or accepting guarantees is contrary to ILTF rules, but the federation's main objection to WTT is that its three-month schedule, which runs from May through July, would seriously disrupt the European circuit and part of the U.S. summer-fall calender.

It had been rumored the federation would ban the three from playing at Forest Hills.

Frenchman Bob Abdesselam, a member of the ILTF's committee of management and one of four men on the emergency suspension committee, said the federation did not wish "to disrupt the championship" and that no action will be taken until the committee has had a chance to meet next week.

While Mrs. King gained a reprieve from a possible suspension or fine, Nastase, the defendiing champion, was not so lucky. The Association of Tournament Professionals fined him $5,000 Tuesday for playing at Wimbledon.

ATP fined Australia's Ray Keldie $1,000, but a decision in the case of Briton Roger Taylor was postponed pending his appearance before the committee. Both joined Nastase at Wimbledon.

Nastase opens the 12-day tournament on Forest Hills' showpiece stadium court against Venezula's Humphrey Hose, a man who came through the qualifying tournament at Port Washington, N.Y. Smith follows with an opening-round match against Patrick Proisey of France.

Veteran Pancho Gonzales faces Hollands' Tom Okker in the third match on the show court which shaped as the pick of the first-round encounters.

Spain's Manuel Orantes takes on Britain's young Chris Mottram in the first match on the grandstand court with Arthur Ashe, who lost to Nastase in last year's U.S. final, following against big-serving Colin Dibley of Australia.

Hambletonian Verdict Scheduled in October

DU QUION, Ill. (UPI) — The Hambletonian Society will make its final decision in October on where its famous harness race will be run, following two bids from interests in New York State Tuesday and an attempt by Illinois officials to keep the classic in the "Hoosier" state.

Saratoga Harness Raceway submitted the apparent high bid for the race by 3-year-old trotters, officials said.

Max C. Hempt, president of the Hambletonian Society, announced that four out-of-state tracks plus Du Quoin submitted bids for contracts to stage the race starting in 1975.

Of these, Saratoga offered the most money, a guaranteed minimum purse of $150,000 added for colts plus a $30,000 minimum for fillies in a three-year contract.

The New York track's presentation included a plea to return the Hambletonian to Saratoga, where the first classic was run in 1926, for the golden anniversary of the race in 1976.

Du Quoin, which has hosted the race since 1957, made exactly the same bid as in the existing contract, $50,000 added for colts and $8,000 for fillies, in a five-year contract.

But Du Quoin sweetened its offer with prospect of an estimated $115,000 extra a year from a special Hambletonian trust fund. The proposal was that all 11 harness racing tracks in Illinois would set aside one-third of the net profit from a special race once each week for the Hambletonian purse.

Orrin Baker, a spokesman for Du Quoin, said the trust fund idea had the "enthusiastic" support of Gov. Daniel Walker. He estimated it could bring the total Hambletonian purse to $234,000, well above what others have offered.

The race is being run Wednesday for a record purse of $144,710.

Bids also were received from Liberty Bell Park in Philadelphia, the New York State Fair, and a group representing Latonia Race Course at Florence, Ky.

Bernard Potter, a director of the New York State Fair, Charles Knauss, executive director of the New York Breeding Development Fund, and Ralph Whitney, president of the New York State Industrial Exhibit Authority, presented the case for Syracuse. They brought along a letter from New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, urging acceptance of the Syracuse bid.

Liberty Bell submitted a bid for a five-year contract calling for $115,000 for Hambletonian colts and $10,000 for fillies. The New York State Fair proposed a five-year offer starting at $100,000 for colts and increasing to $121,000 in 1979 and $25,000 for fillies. The Latonia group bid $175,000 added on colts and $15,000 for fillies.

Hempt said the 21-member Hambletonian Society will meet in New York City Oct. 28 to make a final decision on the contract offers.

Ray Nitschke Ends 15-Year Career

BY JOE CARNICELLI

Ray Nitschke, one of the last ties to Vince Lombardi's great Green Bay teams of the early 1960s, has called it a career after 15 years in the National Football League.

Nitschke, once one of the most ferocious players in the game and voted the best middle linebacker of the NFL's first 50 years, announced his retirement Tuesday at an emotion-filled news conference. Nitschke, relegated to a third-string job in recent seasons, probably saved the Packers the unenviable task of cutting the popular ex-star.

Coach Dan Devine installed Jim Carter as his starting middle linebacker and had Larry Hefner in reserve and thought that Nitschke wouldn't report to camp. In fact, Nitschke's name and biography were an obvious additions to the Packer press guide.

"The spirit is still there but the numbers game got to me," said Nitschke, who helped the Packers to three consecutive NFL titles and two Super Bowl wins. "There's no room on the roster for a third middle linebacker Even though I have known the day would come when I'd have to make this announcement, it never really is an easy one to do. I'm going to hang No. 66 up for the last time."

In other news from the training camps, the Minnesota Vikings dealt Gene Washington to Denver for Rod Sherman in an exchange of wide receivers. Washington was one of the top receivers in the NFL before suffering nagging foot injuries two years ago. Sherman, who also played for Oakland and Cincinnati, was Denver's leading receiver last year with 38 catches.

"We're trading quality receivers," said Denver Coach John Ralston. "Washington gives us the big-play, deep-threat guy to go with Haven Moses.

The Vikings also traded veteran cornerback Charlie Stukes, obtained from Baltimore in the off-season, to Los Angeles, for a draft pick.

Viking General Manager Jim Finks announced that he had paid a $2,500 bonus to defensive tackle Alan Page under a ruling by Commissioner Pete Rozelle. Page's contract called for the bonus if he made any of four All-Star teams. He was named to UPI's All Conference team and Finks contested it. Rozelle ruled in Page's favor.

John Riggins, the New York Jets' leading rusher and Most Valuable Player last season, walked out of camp Tuesday after failing to agree on a contract with Weeb Ewbank, the head coach and general manager.

RAY NITSCHKE

"The way I see it now, I won't be back," said Riggins who reported last Wednesday but did not work out with the Jets. "We're too far apart."

Riggins reportedly is asking for $120,000 a year and Ewbank is offering $40,000.

Wide receiver Mike Siani, Oakland's No. 1 draft pick a year ago, has left the Raiders camp, also with money problems. "All I'm asking for is a $5,000 raise," Siani said. "I don't know why they're making such a big fuss over it."

Jets quarterback Joe Namath is suing Sports Illustrated for $2.3 million for allegedly using his name without permission in advertisements for the magazine. Namath also charged that the magazine since June, 1969 conducted, "a malcious campaign to malign, disgrace and impugn his integrity and honesty".

Buffalo traded veteran offensive lineman Irv Goode to Miami for defensive tackle Mike Kadish, the Dolphins' No. 1 draft choice last season. Kadish taxied all last year.

Defensive back Bryant Salter, who walked out of San Diego's camp 13 days ago with contract problems, returned to the Chargers. Coach Harland Svare said Salter was fined $150 a day.

The New York Giants cut five players, including Linzy Cole, a four-year veteran with four different clubs and Kansas City listed eight-year veteran defensive back Fletcher Smith among its 10 cuts.

KPA Nine Takes 1973 Babe Ruth Title

KINGSTON

The Kingston Patrolmen's Association short-circuited Qualty Insurance in the Kingston Babe Ruth League playoffs, taking the best-of-three series in two straight with 11-10 and 7-5 vitories at Dietz Stadium.

The opener went eight innings until Mike Jordan crashed a single to drive in Don Van Loan with the deciding run in the 22-hit affair. The KPA wrapped it up in the second contest with Van Loan the winner this time as he stopped Quilty on five hits.

Cliff Lyons of the Patrolmen and Rich Bell of the Insurers squared off in the series' first game, and believe it or not, they both went all the way. Despite 11 hits by each team, neither squad could manage to take a commanding lead, and in fact the advantage changed hands eight times during the game.

Bill Berardi homered in the fifth to support a six-run rally by the winners, and Lyons and Jordan each slammed triples to help the cause.

Both pitchers, however, managed to stay out of crucial trouble most of the way. Lyons struck out eight without giving up a walk, while Bell fanned 11 and walked four. It was his final walk, issued to Van Loan in the eighth, that led to the winning run.

Quilty banked on Mark Chapman to earn a split, but he couldn't spread out five hits by the KPA far enough. The winners bunched together four runs in the second inning to take the lead and scored three in the fourth to clinch it.

Van Loan had better luck with his five-hitter and helped himself with a single and a double at the plate. He surrendered triples to Mike Kearney and Brian Croswell but he got seven Insurers on strikes.

Fann's Take Two in BRL

RONDOUT

Paris Perry pitched Fanns to a 10-0 whitewashing of J.O.T.S. and a 9-7 triumph over Lomontville in Rondout Valley Babe Ruth contests.

Perry four-hit Jots and added a double and four runs batted in to lead the offense. The issue was never in doubt after Fanns jumped on losing pitcher Steve Priest for four runs in the first inning.

After breezing through the first three frames against Lomontville, Perry had a no-hitter and a commanding 8-0 lead. Seven runs scored against him in the fourth, however, as the plate began moving around on the young hurler.

Rich Myers came in from shortstop to relieve Perry after he had walked five batters and Lomontville was held off the scoreboard the rest of the way. Ted Nadnatowski took the loss, striking out ten, walking ten and only giving up three hits.

The only extra base hit in the game was a run scoring double by Harold Mulkowsky of Fanns.

Golf Backgrounds Vary in U.S. Amateur

By GENE CADDES

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — Young John Bodin and veteran Bill Campbell emphasized the wide variety of golfing backgrounds which the U.S. Amateur attracts.

Bodin, 21, of Decatur, Ga., making his first appearance ever in the Amateur, squeaked out a 1-up victory Tuesday in the first round over John Hood of South Bend, Ind., coming from what appeared to be certain defeat on the final hole.

In contrast, the 50-year-old Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., making his 28th straight amateur start and 30th overall, breezed to an easy 7 and 6 victory over Mack Murray of Jacksonville Beach, Fla., with birdies on two of the first three holes.

Campbell, who said he "got it going pretty quickly," won the first six holes from Murray, the first time he has ever accomplished that feat, and led the 23-year-old Jacksonville University senior by seven holes at the turn. Campbell won his amateur championship in 1964, the last year that the tourney was match play until this year.

Bodin appeared doomed when he hooked his drive into the left rough and dropped his second shot into a bunker guarding the left side of the green. He got up and down in two, however, for par while Hood left his 15-foot putt from the fringe about two feet short.

Then came an agonizing miss.

"I feel so lucky," said the excited Bodin, a No. 1 man on the Georgia State University golf team. "Gee, I think that's the first putt he (Hood) missed all day."

Bodin had a 74 for his round on the par-71, 6,816 yard Inverness Club Course, said he played "really good" in only his second attempt at match-play competition. Bodin is the 1973 Georgia State Amateur Champion.

Dick Siderowf of Westport, Conn., a U.S. Walker Cup team member, advanced to the second round but got a stiff and unexpected challenge from young John Sutter of West Springfield, Mass. Sutter, led their match at the end of seven holes and was still tied with the 36-year-old Siderowf after 11.

Siderowf rallied to win the 12th and 15th holes and posted his final 3 and 1 margin with a birdie three on the 17th, putting his long second shot only 18 inches from the pin.

Darwak's Big Blast Makes 1st Edition

KINGSTON — Joe Darwak lofted a three-run homer over the centerfield wall in the bottom of the ninth to give the Daily Freeman a come from behind, 9-6, win against Pier Seven III in first round D Division playoff action Tuesday night at Block Park.

In C Division City Rec. playoffs, first place Polacco's and Eddie's Sunnyside advanced to the finals with victories. Polacco's checked Rolling Acres 7-3 and Eddie's edged Boiceville II 5-4.

Darwak's dramatic shot came after the Freeman had battled back with a run in the seventh to tie it at 6-6 after Pier 7 had rallied for three in the sixth to take the lead. Bill Reynolds was the early hitting star for the Freeman with a pair of doubles to knock in two runs.

Joe Fautz had three RBI's for Pier 7 and John Finch and Jim Nacarato each had three hits. The Freeman will meet first place Dedericks in the D Division finals Tuesday.

Andy Perpetua socked a two-run homer for Polacco's and leadoff man Pete Altomarie added a single, double and RBI. Winning pitcher Don Smith scattered 10 Rolling Acres hits.

Varick Graver and Tim Crowley accounted for four of those hits with two apiece. Graver also knocked in two runs.

A two run uprising in the sixth broke a 3-3 deadlock and paced Eddie's Sunnyside to victory. Bruce Lucas and How Markle drove home two runs each for the winners, as Lucas had a perfect three for three night.

For Boiceville, pitcher John Tisch paced the 15-hit attack with three singles and a RBI. Wayne Bock, Paul Loughlin, Bill Ryan and Mike Moleta all had two hits.

Polacco's and Eddie's will meet in the finals Thursday night at Block Park.

Yank Durham Has Stroke

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Yancey "Yank" Durham Jr., manager of former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Frazier and current light heavyweight king Bob Foster, remained in "very critical condition" today after suffering a stroke Tuesday.

YANCEY DURHAM

Durham, 52, who also has trained several top middleweight contenders, was stricken in his North Philadelphia home and rushed to Temple University Hospital shortly before noon.

Hospital officials said Durham suffered a "stroke of major proportions," after complaining of headaches Monday night and early Tuesday.

Earlier this month, Durham talked enthusiastically of training and managing three world boxing champions — Frazier, who is seeking a rematch with heavyweight titleholder George Foreman, Foster and middleweight contender Willie "The Worm" Monroe.

Durham once trained Bennie Briscoe, currently the No. 1 ranked middleweight and Leotis Martin, once a top-ranked heavyweight whose career ended with an eye injury.

However, Durham's greatest success came with Frazier, the 1964 Olympic champion, who decisioned Jimmy Ellis for the heavyweight crown Feb. 16, 1970.

Frazier, whom Durham remembers "walking up to me in a gym in 1961 as a fat kid," decisioned Muhammed Ali March 8, 1971, in Madison Square Garden for the undisputed heavyweight title was expected to arrive here today.

Ali, reached at his Deer Lake, Pa., training camp, was unavailable for comment.

"It hit him (Ali) very bad when he heard the news. He heard it right after training and he is now walking in the hills with himself," one of Ali's trainers said.

Durham, a native of Camden, N.J., got interested in training during the many hours he spent in gymnasiums and learned much of the skills from veteran trainer Jimmy Wilson.

His short amateur ring career as a middleweight ended in England during World War II. During an air raid scramble, a jeep ran over Durham's legs, breaking both of them and causing him to spend much of the next two years in hospitals.

He worked as a welder for the old Pennsylvania Railroad for a number of years while training little-known fighters in Philadelphia.

In May of 1971, the veteran trainer was hospitalized for high blood pressure. At the same time, he learned that one of his sons had been stricken with sickle cell anemia, a blood disease common among blacks.

Blakely Captures Title at Rondout

ACCORD — Dave Blakely overcame a five-stroke deficit in the final round to capture the 1973 men's championship at Rondout Pool, Golf and Tennis Association with a 72-hole medal score of 306.

Blakely, who captured the 1969 title at Wiltwyck Golf Club, fashioned rounds of 77, 78, 78, 73 to overhaul Mike Mangi, who led him 228-233 at the end of 54 holes. Mangi grossed 308 off rounds of 79, 75, 74 and 80.

Blakely's strong finish caught Mangi on the 69th hole and passed him on the 70th where Mangi ran into a disastrous triple-bogey seven on the par-4 sixteenth hole. His wedge approach overshot the green and rolled into an unplayable lie. Blakely was able to pick up two strokes with a bogey five. They parred the last two holes.

Third Hole-in-One

Hoke Everett, a prison guard at Napanoch, accounted for the third hole-in-one in Rondout history, when he aced the par-three third hole with a 7-iron shot. The other Rondout aces were scored by Bill Barrett and Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor.

Playing his usual steady game on Saturday, Barthel shot identical nines of 37. He came in with a spectacular closing nine of 34 on Sunday after going out in 40.

Beadle put together rounds of 80-82, while Davenport closed fast with a 78 after an opening 84. Rounding out the top ten were Wilson Stoutenburg 163, Billy Collins Jr. 164, Charly Smith 164, Bill Decker 165, Bob Graves 167, Ed Lattin 171 and Phil Buchanan 173.

In the 18-hole Stone Dock Invitational, Ed McDevitt nosed out Bill Lake by one shot in the all net tournament. McDevitt's 20 handicap gave him a five under 67 after he shot 39-48-87.

Lake fashioned an 84-16-68 to take second place just ahead of Bob Beadle and Peter Hengstenburg, who tied with 69. Others who tied or bettered par were Gary Bartel and Bob Graves, coming in with 71 and 72 respectively.

Love Bugs—Greenbacks A Game to Remember

SAUGERTIES — The Saugerties AA Lassie League championship game between the Love Bugs and Greenbacks will have an added dimension for the Love Bugs. It's a victory they eagerly desire.

Their only loss of the season — in fact, their one setback in two years — was at the hands of the Greenbacks. They have another incentive going for them. If they win this game, they will become the first team in the Lassie loop's six year history to capture back-to-back titles.

Greenbacks won the first game between the teams this season, 9-6. They led 9-3 going into the last inning when Love Bugs rallied for three runs and had the bases loaded when the final out was made.

Greenbacks have some good reasons of their own to win the big one. Virtually the same group of girls has finished second in recent SAA volleyball and basketball leagues and they'd like to be No. 1 for a change.

Furthermore, five of the Greenbacks were members of the YWCA squad which won the Kingston City Girls Softball championship and wouldn't mind another title. The YWCA hurler and Greenbacks' pitcher is the same, hard-throwing Donna Myer, who in her last outing in the Saugerties circuit missed a perfect game by a lone base on balls.

The champions, runnersup, batting, home run, RBI leader, best won-loss pitcher, Most Valuable Pitcher and Most Valuable Player will be presented with awards at the "SAA Night of Champions V" on Sept. 15 at the Flamingo Restaurant.

CAPTAIN ROBERT F. J. SCHNEIDER

WASHINGTON Captain Robert F. J. Schneider of the U.S. Navy, a 1940 graduate of Kingston High School, has been reassigned to a new position with the U.S. European Command.

Capt. Schneider, who enlisted as an apprentice seaman in 1942 in Kingston, has been transferred from the post of War Plans Officer in the Plans Directorate (J-5) to a newly established post as deputy inspector general in the office of the Inspector General, Headquarters, U.S. European Command, a joint headquarters staffed by Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force personnel.

The veteran Navy officer has served more than 30 years of continuous active service, including duty on 14 different aircraft carriers.

Following his enlistment in 1942, he was comissioned as an ensign and was designated a naval aviator in 1946. After graduation from KHS, he attended the University of Southern California and George Washington University.

Capt. Schneider is married to the former Miss Elizabeth M. Prendergast, formerly of 66 East Chester Street, Kingston. He has been living with his family in Stuttgart, Germany, since July of 1970. Capt. Schneider's mother, Mrs. Anne Thiebauth and his sister, Mrs. George M. Carpenter, reside in Kingston.

Discharge Key to Benefits

Listen Veteran.....

KINGSTON DID YOU KNOW the key to all veterans benefits is a discharge under other than dishonorable conditions? The benefits are a small token of appreciation to veterans of the Armed Forces for faithful service to their country. They have been rightfully earned. If you haven't already done so, contact your local veterans counseling center for facts on benefits awaiting you.

Hospitalization is one of the principal benefits for veterans under the GI Bill. Understandably, admission of veterans to a VA hospital is on a priority basis, with top priority going to those with service-connected injuries or diseases. Next in priority are veterans with service-connected disabilities seeking admission for treatment of non-service-connected ailments. And, finally, veterans having no service-connected disabilities. Veterans in this last category may be admitted for treatment of non-service-connected injuries or diseases if the following conditions are met: (1) hospitalization is necessary; (2) they sign under oath they are financially unable to cover the cost of necessary hospitalization elsewhere, and (3) beds are available. Veterans who are 65 years of age or older are not required to satisfy the second requirement, that of stating inability to afford hospitalization elsewhere.

Veterans wanting counseling on obtaining admission to a VA hospital for treatment should contact Charlie Culver of the veteran counseling center of the New york State Division of Veterans' Affairs in this area. It's located at County Office Building, Kingston, New York. Tel. 331-9300 Ext. 287.

The $2,500 bonus is for enlistment in certain combat-related career fields, the sergeant said, and is in addition to free housing, meals, medical and dental care, a starting salary of $307.20 a month and 30 days paid vacation a year. Enlistments must be in either infantry or the artillery.

The bonus is payable, he said, upon a successful completion of job training at various posts around the country. A wide variety of units of choice is available including the 4th Infantry Division, Fort Carson, Colo., the 193rd Infantry Brigade, Panama and the Berlin Brigade, Berlin.

Sgt. Fitzpatrick, in referring to the woman's role in the Volunteer Army, said "we now have enlistment options for young women interested in becoming teletypewriter repairmen, fixed cryptographic repairmen and communication center specialists.

These are only a few of the jobs recently opened to females as a result of the expanded role of women in the Army. A qualified high school graduate, 18 to 34 years of age, is guaranteed the training she selects before she enlists.

And the pay and other benefits are the same as for the male enlistees.

Sgt. Fitzpatrick may be contacted at the Army recruiting station, Broadway and Maiden Lane, for additional information.

Russian Author Claims His Life Is Threatened

MOSCOW (AP) — Nobel Prize novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn, in a rare and bluntly outspoken interview with two Western newsmen, says his life has been threatened. He says that, if he is imprisoned or killed, "the main part of my works will be published."

The world-celebrated author, whose works are banned in the Soviet Union, said he and his family have received warnings and "if I am declared killed or suddenly mysteriously dead," the world could conclude that "I have been killed with the approval of the KGB or by it."

The KGB is the Soviet security police organization.

Solzhenitsyn, 54, is the author of such famed novels as "The First Circle," "Cancer Ward" and "August 1914." He won the 1970 Nobel Prize for literature, but authorities prevented him from receiving it in his homeland.

The author was interviewed by The Associated Press and Le Monde of Paris. He accepted written questions and wrote out answers to those he chose to respond to.

The bearded writer, dressed in an open necked shirt and slacks, was friendly and animated as he discussed developments that have convinced him the cause of individual freedom in the Soviet Union is at a low ebb.

Some other main points of Solzhenitsyn's statements:

—What he calls "the main part of my works" is as yet unpublished.

—He will continue publishing his books in the West. Now that the Soviet Union has signed the international copyright convention, he also will give his works to "samizdat," the clandestine "self-publishing" system used by Soivet dissenters.

—He will further defy officialdom by moving to Moscow to live this winter, despite denial of a permit.

—He wanted particularly to speak out in defense of the noted physicist, Andrei D. Sakharov, a prominent Soviet champion of human rights, because he is convinced the increased harassment of Sakharov and others shows the situation is "at a nadir."

—Any trial of dissidents Pyotr Yakir and Viktor Krassin will be a "doleful repetition" of the Stalin purge trials of the 1930s. He feels that if Yakir and Krassin agreed to turn state's evidence, as reported, they have conducted themselves "basely."

"But I must say that my death will not make happy those people who count on it to stop my literary activities. Immediately after my death or immediately after I have disappeared or have been deprived of my liberty, my literary last will and testament will irrevocably come into force . . . and then the main part of my works will start being published, works I have refrained from publishing all these years.

"If the officers of the KGB track down and confiscate copies of the harmless 'Cancer Ward' in all provincial cities—and fire holders of these copies from their work or drive them from higher educational institutions—what will they do when my principal and posthumous books stream out all over Russia?"

He declined to discuss in detail the unpublished "main part" of his works, especially in an apartment he believed was bugged. He turned instead to plans for publishing the remainder of the series that began with "August 1914."

He said that probably "I won't let out 'October 1916' before the third volume, 'March 1917,' is ready." The two are too closely knit and only together could explain his view of the course of events, the writer said.

Special State Commission Dies Amid Confusion

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI) — A special state commission that lived four years beyond the anniversary it was created to honor has died, in much the same way it lived—amid quiet confusion.

Back in 1967, the state legislature created the De LaSalle Tercentenary Commission and allocated $15,000 to the nine-member panel. Its mission: observe the 300th anniversary of the expedition by Robert Cavalier Sieur De LaSalle into what is now New York State.

The anniversary of the French explorer's venture was in 1969.

As one of the members of the commission put it, "We decided the best way to handle our part in an observance would be to make a film about LaSalle and then distribute it."

Once the documentary was completed, the board members—who came mostly from the Rochester and Buffalo areas and served without pay—agreed that prints should go to educational television stations and major library systems around the state.

That is when a problem developed. "There wasn't quite enough money, so we had to ask the legislature for something like an extra $2,000 or $3,000 to complete our work," the commission official said.

"When we did that, we were exposed to bureaucracy at its finest. Did we get what we asked for? No—we got another $15,000 instead," the member said.

That was in 1968, and the commission continued to receive a $15,000 a year allotment for the state legislature until this past March.

"We found ourselves on an incredible treadmill," the panel member said. "We tried to give it back but got nowhere. We kept getting $15,000 allotments."

The commission, with its task completed but money still being issued, then heard of the plight of some Indians living on the St. Regis Reservation, near Massena.

"We heard that they had been pleading with the legislature for six sessions for money. They wanted to drill some wells so they could have more water," the official said.

"Here we were with money we didn't want and there they were without a cent. So the committee voted to spend our money building ten wells for the Indians. Just to make sure it was legal, we threw in a couple of extra dollars and put up little plaques saying they were dedicated to the memory of LaSalle."

The committee members reportedly expected their move to "raise a few eyebrows in Albany" and bring a halt to a commission already serving beyond the originally intended anniversary year.

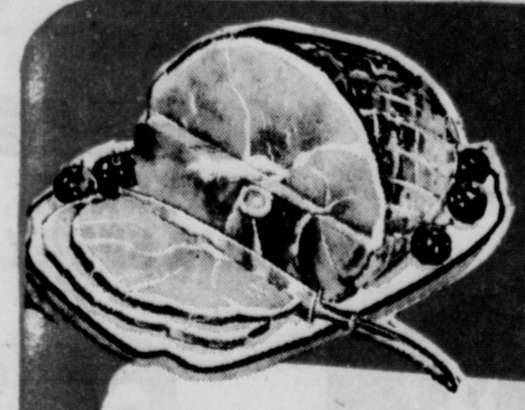

"Lo and behold, no complaints. Just another $15,000," the official said.

The commission's final demise proved as confusing as its existence.

According to the board official, "We were notified in March of 1972 that the commission had finally expired. We were able to give the money back to the state and as far as we were concerned, that was the end of it."

An examination of the appropriations by the 1972 legislature, however, showed that the body was extended until March of 1973 with another $15,000 allocation.

A state budget official, who was asked to look into the status of the board, said "Well, its dead. No question about it. It officially died last March and the legislature did not extend it this time."

The musicians are performing under a grant from the Musicians Performance Trust Fund which was coordinated by the American Federation of Musicians, Local 238, Poughkeepsie.

Area Artists Set Meeting

WOODSTOCK

August Checks Due Sept. 1

KINGSTON

Social security checks for August will be delivered on Sept. 1, according to George J. Habernig, social security district manager in Kingston.

"Checks for a given month are usually delivered on the 3rd of the following month," Habernig said. "When the 3rd falls on a day mail isn't delivered—a Sunday or a national holiday—the checks are usually delivered a day ahead, the 2nd of the month."

Habernig continued that since Sept. 2 is a Sunday and the 3rd is Labor Day, social security checks will be delivered on Saturday, Sept. 1.

Splash Party Is Planned

RED HOOK

The Red Hook Recreational Park will host its second Splash Party for adults Sept. 1.

Several weeks ago, a similar party was held and proved to be well attended. The Labor Day Weekend party will begin at 8:30 p.m., with rain date the following day. Esther Higgins will chair this event.

A buffet will be served and water sports are planned, weather permitting. An "over thirties" relay race is also on the aganda.

The Splash Party is open to residents of the Red Hook Central School District and their guests. There will be a donation collected to cover expenses. Reservations may be made by calling the Rec Park.

KINGSTON

James V. Ausanio, 19, of 235 Downs Street, who was issued 11 vehicle and traffic citations by city police Sunday following a high speed car chase, will reappear in court on Sept. 13 for all purposes.

Elmor H. Nathan of Kingston was assigned as counsel.

Ausanio was released in his own custody at arraignment in City Court Monday. He also faces a reckless driving charge filed by the Ulster County Sheriff's Department and a reckless endangerment charge filed by the Town of Ulster constabulary.

The chase Sunday proceeded through parts of the Town of Ulster and city of Kingston, with Town of Ulster police, sheriff's deputies and city police in pursuit of the car. Ausanio was arrested after his car crashed into a dead tree stump on Abeel Street.

Your Horoscope

Thursday, August 30

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You start out with excellent judgment and the desire to extend your interests far beyond present boundaries. Later, you feel just great and very romantic, but there is a decided deceptive condition present—just as likely to be within yourself as from outside.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Important to make new arrangements with both associate and with mate in p.m. if you want the future to develop more satisfactorily. Stick to the truth since your mind is too tired to do much angling, anyway. Then you come out on top.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Put that good taste to work and make your abode, business place more attractive. Show co-workers the better side of your nature. Your health needs more attention now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try not to let your imagination run away with you when dealing with the one you love or there could be some bad misunderstanding. Enjoy regular recreations instead of jumping into new ones that could be far from anything you might like.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to get dull routines tuned up so they are more efficient, but first study how others have done so for best results. Make your home more attractive in some way. The right painting could work wonders.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you state to others how much you appreciate them, you get excellent backing from them now, and your life becomes more worthwhile. Buy the clothing that makes you look like a new You. Thrill the one you love.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan how to improve any real estate you may have, as well as how to add appreciably to present prosperity. Buy and sell with more wisdom and show you know how to handle money. Avoid extravagance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are highly charming and can accomplish much in the world of activity right now, so get an early start. Accept invitations in p.m. of a social nature. Dress well and wow 'em!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Some investigation will give you the answers for which you have been searching for some time. Don't be afraid to show your devotion to those you really love, otherwise they feel neglected. Increase happiness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Instead of being so blunt with others, use tact and show more affection if you want more harmony, happiness. Being more willing to go out socially is good. Dress well and within your means.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try not to give others the wrong impression in the outside world, or you could ruin your reputation right now. Use wisdom and you can make a big headway with the influential. Stick to own knitting in p.m.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have new ideas and make new associates, which is fine provided they are the right ones, so be selective. Make those plans to travel that are important. See to it that your wardrobe is right.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Making certain that you keep promises to others in a most honorable and exact way is important right now. Do whatever will put your mate's mind at least partially at ease. Then mend your ways.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those pretty young people who could be very badly spoiled by others if you do not teach early to stand on own feet, otherwise there could be failure instead of the fine promise in this chart. There are outstanding talents here and the ability to be neat and accurate, so give the best education you can afford. Permit to follow religion of own choice for best results.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel. "What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Why do alarm clocks NEVER fail to ring on days you must go to the dentist?

Can you recall when "rock-a-bye" didn't need two amplifiers, an electric guitar and five woofers and six tweeters to be heard?

Show us a bathtub without a ring and we'll show you a home without kids.

The boss says that now summer's over, it's nice to see all of us back on vacation.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

OLDER THAN HE: (Q.) We have a problem. We feel rejected by our friends and family. They don't understand us and don't want to accept us. I am 19 and my boy friend is 17.

His friends laugh at him and ask him how he's making out with the "older chick." My friends joke about my "mother complex."

Our families don't understand our relationship, which they, by standard social norms, judge to be in reverse.

It is not just ages. I drive, and I call my boy friend sometimes. Sometimes I pay. We both like giving to each other and that means having to accept.

My friends seem to think he should serve me. His friends think I am dumb and that he is using me to his advantage.

We think we have something real going. How can we convince them?—Misunderstood in Pennsylvania.

(A.) What you think and what your boyfriend thinks are the important points. If you think you have something real, you should not worry about what others think.

Today's emerging life styles are making it possible for girls and boys to have more freedom to be themselves. If you want to take turns taking each other to dinner, driving, or calling, there is no rule that keeps you—the girl—from occasionally taking the initiative.

The difference in your ages, just as the thoughtless comments, should be mere details to you, if you and he genuinely like what you have. If you are convinced yourselves, don't try to convince anyone else.

SUDDEN: (Q.) This is it. Marcia and I got to be good friends in school last year. At the end of school there was a picnic. I asked her to go with me. She said yes. We had fun like we had been going together forever.

We had a couple more dates and I asked her to be my girl friend. She said she would. We had some more dates and some more fun.

Last week I went to her house for dinner. I thought I did OK. But the next day Marcia's girl friend called and said Marcia wanted to break up with me. I asked to talk to Marcia and she told me it wasn't anybody else, and she liked me, but she didn't want to go out with me anymore.

I still love her. What would you do?—Shocked in Pennsylvania.

(A.) There is nothing for you to do except to face the fact that Marcia is no longer your girl friend.

Her decision may have been all hers, or it may have been influenced by her parents.

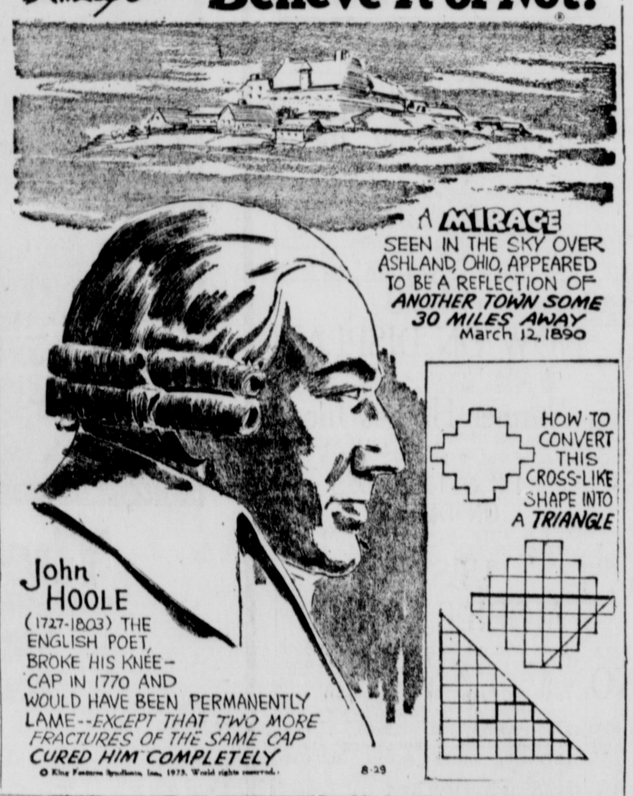

It may have been that—seeing you against the background of her home and family, Marcia suddenly saw that you were not the way she wanted to go. Or her action, even though it seemed sudden to you, may have been the result of weeks of thinking.

Continue to be a friend to Marcia. Maybe some day, when it won't hurt you so much as it would now, she will tell you the full story.

Or maybe some day she will change her mind and will again think yes instead of no about you.

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions or comments to Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001.)

Peking Bureaus . . . Not Yet

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite the great leap forward in Sino-American relations, there may be a long wait ahead for the three U.S. television networks that want to establish permanent news bureaus in Peking.

The most optimistic forecast comes from Elmer Lower, president of ABC News, who recently returned from a three-week "working visit" to mainland China.

"It's at least a year away," he says, keeping his fingers crossed that ABC will be the first allowed to set up shop in Peking. The competition among ABC, CBS and NBC to be the first is intense.

Last April, the networks' high-level campaigning began with the China visit of William S. Paley, board chairman of CBS, and Gordon Manning, a senior vice president of CBS News.

They were followed on July 20 by Lower; Leonard H. Goldenson, board chairman of American Broadcasting Companies, Inc.; and Desmond Wong, a Chinese-speaking ABC News film editor here for 14 years.

Top NBC officials have been trying to arrange a similar visit, but NBC says there's no word yet on when they'll be allowed to go.

Lower's party left China on Aug. 10 with an agreement to exchange television newsfilm, documentary and sports programs and personnel. But no Peking bureau was in the agreement.

He said officials of China's Central Broadcasting Bureau, when asked about the matter, said there were problems of finding both housing and translators for American television news teams.

"So the net effect of what they were saying was, 'We'll give it further consideration,' and the way I translate that is, 'No, not for the present,'" Lower said.

He said they gave no indication of when they'd allow any American news bureau to set up shop and "I don't think they know when they'll to it.

"While they gave these reasons, I heard another possible reason from people who've made the same request and from people who see it from arm's length — not all of them in broadcasting.

"They say that at this delicate stage of U.S.-Chinese relations, the mainland Chinese officials may not want three American networks, the press associations and perhaps a couple of newspaper specials running all around the country doing highly competitive daily reporting.

"So that may be a reason," Lower said. "They may prefer to play this game on rotation — letting one news team in for one assignment, letting one in for another. And actually, they're doing pretty good with that so far."

Opening lead—♥9

We watched our old friend the unlucky expert at work the other day. He had been holding good cards, was winning and happy. Then he picked up the South hand shown in the box.

His face lit up like a Christmas tree. He studied awhile and chortled a happy six no-trump. North raised to seven.

West opened the nine of hearts, dummy hit the table and there was our friend flying blind in a fog with over 2,000 points riding on the location of the queen of spades.

He studied a while; played low for dummy; won the trick with his ace and played out diamonds and clubs. His exact sequence was ace of diamonds; ace-king of clubs; king-quee. of diamonds; queen-jack of clubs; jack of diamonds.

West, a lucky expert, had to make six discards while all East had to do was to follow suit. West also had plenty of time to visualize the unlucky expert's problem.

His first five discards were hearts. His sixth was a quick, carefree seven of spades. South cashed the king of hearts and when both opponents followed South knew that West had started with four spades and East with three and that his correct play was to finesse against West.

Then our unfortunate friend thought about the seven of spades; decided that West was trying to look like a man with the queen of spades. He finessed the wrong way and paid off as usual.

Quake in Mexico Claims 393 Lives

MEXICO CITY (UPI — Nearly 400 persons were killed, more than 800 were injured and two towns were almost destroyed Tuesday in a massive earthquake that spread destruction across 200 miles of Mexico's eastern Sierra Madres.

Waverly Person of the National Earthquake Information Center in Boulder, Colo., said the 'quake appeared to be the worst in Mexico's modern history in terms of loss of life.

Interior Ministry spokesman Enrique Mendoza said 393 people were killed but that more could be added to the list of dead when rescuers finish digging through the rubble.

The early morning 'quake, centered in fault lines deep under Mexico's mountainous central spine, registered 7 on the Richter Scale—more powerful than the December, 1972 'quake in Managua, Nicaragua that killed 5,000 persons. The Managua 'quake had a Richter intensity of 6.2.

Hardest hit in Tuesday's 'quake was the town of Orizaba, which was caught in the epicenter of the giant temblor. A three-story apartment building in the community of 50,000 persons 150 miles east-southeast of Mexico City collapsed, instantly killing more than 100 tenants asleep inside.

Mexican President Luis Echeverria was en route today to the devastated zone around Orizaba.

Thousands were left without homes. Red Cross officials said about 800 persons were injured. They estimated 100 persons died in Quecholac in Puebla State; 80 in Ciudad Cerdan, 178 in Orizaba, two in Puebla and two in Cordoba in Veracruz State. Others died in scattered areas.

Officials said Puebla, Mexico's fourth largest city with a population of 550,000 located 80 miles southeast of Mexico City, also suffered extensive damage.

UPI reporter Timothy Berry reported from Orizaba that the Swiss-style city was half destroyed as scores of buildings toppled over, burying their occupants in rubble. Hundreds were left homeless. Mayor Humberto Guitierrez said the city's 350-bed hospital was badly damaged. Schools were demolished.

A passerby said he ran to the wrecked apartment building to offer help after the 'quake hit.

"I couldn't stand it," he said. "There were people trapped inside screaming. There was nothing I could do. I had to get away."

Orizaba was left without electricity or running water. Rockslides closed highways into the city. All communications with the outside world, the other side of the Sierra Madre mountains, were cut.

Dazed survivors wandered the littered streets looking for relatives or possessions.

"It was horrible," said secretary Marina Garcia, 18. "It was the worst thing I have ever seen. It sounded like the whole world was shaking."

"I was lucky," said Magdalena Delgado, 63. "The whole house collapsed but that ceiling beam over there fell at an angle over my bed. I crawled out the window. My sister up the street is dead. Three of my cousins are in the hospital."

The 'quake was also felt in Mexico City, where frightened tourists ran into the streets in their night clothes. Dozens of smaller towns were rocked.

BANK ROBBER OLSSON IS LED FROM THE BANK BY POLICE

(UPI Photo)

Reign of Terror Ends in Stockholm Bank

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Six days of terror for four hostages held at the point of a bandit's submachine gun in a downtown bank ended in five stormy minutes Tuesday when he and his convict friend surrendered under a storm of police tear gas.

The gunman, Jan-Erik Olsson, 32, fired one last hail of bullets at police from the 40-by-10-foot bank vault where he was holding the hostages. Then—tears streaming down his face as gas flooded the chamber—he cried: "I give up. I give up."

The 131-hour ordeal that at one point had the hostages pleading for their lives was over.

Police said Olsson's companion, convicted bank robber Clark Olofsson, 26, also surrendered without a struggle. Olofsson was released from prison and brought to the Kreditbanken bank on Olsson's orders Thursday, the day he botched an attempt to rob the bank and took the hostages instead.

Looking tired and dirty, both men were led away handcuffed to officers still wearing their gas masks.

Their bedraggled victims—three women and a man, all bank employes — walked through the door of the vault and were loaded on stretchers, then taken to separate hospitals.

The hostages—Mrs. Birgitta Lundblad, a 31-year-old mother of two, Kristin Enmark, 21, Elisabeth Oldgren, 23, and the man, Sven Saefstroem, 25—were all unharmed, hospital spokesmen said.

Olsson and Olofsson, blinded by tear gas before they surrendered, also were hospitalized and armed policemen stood guard by their bedsides.

One police officer, who would not identify himself, said hours before the capture that Olsson and Olofsson "have turned the vault into a torture chamber. They are extremely brutal. What's happening down there makes me want to throw up." He would not elaborate.

Olsson had repeatedly threatened to kill the hostages throughout the saga. Police called off the first attempt to gas him out Monday when he warned he had roped the hostages in such a way they would strangle themselves if they slumped into unconsciousness from the gas. Police said Olsson at that point had the hostages "begging for their lives."

The saga began Thursday morning when Olsson burst into the government-owned bank, pulled the submachine gun from under his coat and demanded money.

A few minutes later he shot and wounded a civilian police officer and took eight bank clerks as hostages. He released four of them but kept the others.

Then Oloffson was brought to the bank on his orders. Olsson demanded and received part of $750,000 in ransom, two loaded guns and a fast getaway car.

Police refused to concede to the gun and car demands. Again Olsson threatened to kill the hostages unless all his demands were met.

Lindroth said there were indications that Olsson and his friend planned the robbery together in prison before Olsson escaped six weeks ago.

Iranian Team Faces Problems

SAIGON (UPI) — An Iranian advance team arrived in Saigon today to prepare for replacing Canada on the international truce team, but ran into a series of stumbling blocks characteristic of the stalled peace-keeping operations in Indochina.

The five Iranians, led by Staff Col. Soltan Mohammad Etemad, arrived late at Tan Son Nhut airport and had to wait in their plane another half hour while a special lounge was cleared.

The Iranian officers were then whisked away from the airport without stopping in the lounge and before a waiting U.S. Embassy representative had a chance to greet them.

The visitors were taken by mistake to the Iranian ambassador's residence and finally arrived at their hotel two hours late.

The advance team was expected to remain in Saigon for two to seven days working out details for the arrival of Iran's full 250-member contingent to the International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS).

Truce team officials at Tan Son Nhut airport expressed hope the Iranian arrival would get the commission back to work. The panel has been stalled for a month since Canada pulled out claiming the group was inefective.

A South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry spokesman said earlier Iran's delegation to the commission will be headed by Ambassador Assab Fadrri.

Iran will join Hungary, Indonesia and Poland on the ICCS, whose cease-fire and prisoner exchange supervision duties have been suspended since Canada left the organization.

Canada left the team after six months of frustration and disappointment with the progress of peace-keeping in the country. The ICCS was created to supervise the truce under terms of the Jan. 27 Paris accords ending the war.

Fadrri, 51, is a veteran diplomat who currently is serving on the staff that coordinates U.N. volunteer programs in Geneva, informed sources said. He previously served as a member of Iran's delegation to the United Nations in New York and at Iran's embassies in Cairo and Beirut.

The United States, one of the four signatories of the Paris accord, nominated Iran to replace Canada. And Iran is known to have been the top choice of President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam.

Scheduled to head the five-man advance force from Iran, informed sources said, was Staff Col. Soltan Mohammand Etemad.

On South Vietnam's fighting fronts only light scattered action was reported today. Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, spokesman for the South Vietnamese command, said 80 Communist truce violations, two fewer than the previous day, were reported in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today.

Airlines' Payments Reported

By United Press International

The Jerusalem Post said today four European airlines may have paid Arab guerrillas millions of dollars in protection money to prevent hijackings on their planes.

"The airlines have made a purely commercial calculation that it is cheaper to pay the terrorists for immunity than to employ effective, expensive security measures," the Israeli newspaper said.

Elsewhere, diplomatic sources in Cairo said today King Faisal of oil-rich Saudi Arabia has pledged unlimited money to bolster Egypt in the confrontation with Israel. And U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, who arrived in Beirut, Lebanon, Tuesday on a Middle East tour, called the Middle East crisis "one of the most dangerous problems in the world."

"It is our duty to help solve this problem, Waldheim said, "but I cannot perform miracles."

The Post, an authoritative English language paper, said "at least four European airlines are suspected of paying either regular or one-time payments to Arab terrorist organizations in return for immunity from hijacking." It added that the protection money was believed to run "into millions of dollars."

The Post quoted "unimpeachable sources" in the report and said it could not get official confirmation. It did not name the airlines, but said all four fly to Israel.

Five European airlines—Air France, Swissair, Austrian Airways, Lufthansa and Sabena—have been targets of Arab guerrillas. All European airlines with the exception of Iberia fly to Israel.

Military Plane Crashes, Report 24 Are Killed

MADRID (AP) — A U.S. military cargo plane crashed 40 miles east of Madrid Tuesday night, and the Spanish Air Ministry said 24 of the 25 persons aboard were killed.

The C141 Starlifter jet was based at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey and was en route from Athens, Greece, to the U.S. Air Force base at Torrejon, 16 miles east of Madrid.

Spanish news agencies said the sole survivor was 1st Lt. William Ray, 25, a pilot, and that he had a broken leg. He was taken to the Torrejon base hospital, but his home address was not available.

Seventeen passengers and a crew of eight were reported aboard the plane, and there were unconfirmed reports that three women were among the passengers.

U.S. Air Force officials at Torrejon said they had no official word yet on casualties.

McGuire Air Force Base said it had no information on the plane.

The plane slammed into the ground about a mile outside the little town of Hueva as the craft was preparing to land at the joint Spanish-American base. Local police said none of the townspeople was affected.

Fair Starts Second Day

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—The New York State Fair goes into its second day today following a hot, humid and muggy opening day that attracted 62,072, more than 40,000 below last year's opening day figure.

The fair, which continues through Labor Day, had a total attendance of 583,923 for seven days last year, with 102,136 going to the first day of the event in 1972.
